NEW PLAN MAY HELP UNRAVEL ARMS TANGLE

Powers Would Be Required to Consult Others When Peace Is Endangered

PARIS STILL OBSTACLE Would Provide Additional Safeguard if War Clouds Gather on Horizon

Paris—(AP)—French official circles expressed the feeling today that a guarantee of security for France or even a consultative pact has been thoroughly scrapped at the London conference. It was added authoritatively that France, having failed to obtain a guarantee of security from the other powers, must build up such a navy as will look after its own guarantee itself. The French figures have been 724,000 tons. It was also mentioned that Italy while insisting upon parity with France had failed to present the figures of her own requirements. The only hope expressed in official circles was that some formula might be found to prevent the London conference ending in complete failure.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1930, by Post Pub. Co. Washington—(CPA)—The London conference having rejected the idea of a separate treaty of consultation the idea now is being advanced here that a provision may be included in the naval limitation treaty which would require the signatories to consult with one another in any situation threatening a disturbance of world peace.

Tactically a separate treaty was inexpedient because it meant the opportunity for a fight more or less along the lines of the world court controversy, but when once the consultation provision is embodied in the naval agreement it would be necessary for members of the United States senate to protect themselves against the whole matter if they wish to prevent the inclusion of a consultation clause.

It would be natural, of course, for reservations to be proposed to any consultation provision. Such reservations might state that the clause in no way commits the United States to political entanglements or involves a moral obligation to use force or take sides. Such reservations might or might not be acceptable to the foreign powers who sign the treaty but as a rule the ratification of a treaty does not necessarily require waiting for other powers to put in reservations.

By some consultation clause, too, the French might be able to recede from their tonnage figures at this time and when once the naval limitation is agreed upon, a definition of American obligations under the consultation paragraph might not affect the ratification of the treaty by France.

WANT LIMITATION FIRST

It is therefore considered probable here that some way will be found soon to reconcile the French viewpoint and that of the other naval powers. On the other hand, the information now is that naval limitation ought to be worked out first, and then a discussion begun as to what implied assurances might be derived from a clause requiring mutual assistance but mutual consultation. The American delegation at the moment is unwilling to place itself in the position of bargaining for a French recession by offering now a consultation treaty. The theory of the consultation plan is that when once armament is limited or reduced, all the naval powers should have a chance to revise upward or downward if any clouds threaten. It properly belongs in a naval treaty of long duration and it is desired that the new treaty be made for at least ten years.

While press dispatches from abroad reflect Foreign Minister Briand's pessimism over the outcome of the conference, this is merely taken to get a separate treaty and having failed on that, is turning toward Premier Tardieu to come in with a solution.

Report Agreement Between Japan and U. S.

COURT AGAIN TO DECIDE IN LAKES FIGHT

Lake States Insist Chicago District Should Be Told to Return Water

Washington—(AP)—The supreme court once more is to pass on the controversy between the Great Lakes states and the Chicago sanitary district over the diversity of water from Lake Michigan.

Eminent counsel yesterday concluded oral arguments, based on the report of Charles E. Hughes, as special master, which recommended to the court plans for decreasing the diversion and for sewage disposal by other means than diluting it by the use of lake water. Now chief justice, Mr. Hughes will not participate in the case.

Counsel for the Great Lakes states all insisted that the final decree of the supreme court should require the Chicago Sanitary district to return to the lake all water from the sewage disposal plants, the surplus of water withdrawn for municipal purposes and water fathered after forms.

They insisted that no water should be permitted to pass Lockport, at the western end of the sanitary canal, where the city has installed a large hydro-electric plant. Modern sewage disposal plants would destroy practically all disease germs and render the effluent passing from them, so pure, they declared, that there would be no danger of polluting the drinking water supply of Chicago by turning the water into the lake. It was further insisted that should Chicago desire fully to protect itself against polluted water, it could do so by taking its supply for municipal purposes 20 miles away from the mouth of Chicago harbor.

Counsel for the sanitary district argued that the Great Lakes states had entirely changed their position and now were demanding the impracticable from Chicago. The Great Lakes were objecting to any diversion, they said, adding that formerly the states had conceded that some diversion was necessary for navigation purposes.

The court was urged by Chicago counsel not to place at this time a final minimum diversion that shall be effective nine years hence, while 1,500 cubic feet per second had been suggested as a maximum, when all sewage disposal plants had been completed, counsel for the sanitary district pointed to a raise in lake levels since the case was last before the court. They asked the court to reserve its decision as to the amount until it had the benefit of practical experience which would come with the installation of sewage disposal plants.

REAL ESTATE MAN HELD BY KIDNAPERS

Is Waylaid by Three Men and Carried Off in Car—No Ransom Asked

Asbury Park, N. J.—(AP)—Police today are working to effect the release of Samuel Barron, wealthy New York real estate operator, who had been kidnapped by three men near his home at Interlaken, N. J.

Motive for the kidnaping, which occurred Wednesday night, was not apparent, as no demand for ransom has been made and Barron's wife and associates said they knew of no enemies he had.

Barron was waylaid as he walked toward his home from the Allenhurst station by three men who sprang upon him from roadside shrubbery. After a struggle he was subdued and lifted into an automobile driven by a fourth man.

Arthur Kelly, another commuter, told police he was walking behind Barron and witnessed the attack and abduction. He said before he could attempt to give aid, the victim had been knocked down by a blow on the head, and thrust into the car which was driven rapidly away. Kelly said he obtained the license number of the car.

Herman Goodstein, a partner with Barron in the Parsam Realty corporation, 291 Broadway, New York city, told police that it was Barron's custom to collect large sums of money for the firm and that robbery might have been the motive for the attack and kidnaping.

The proposed revision is before the senate interstate commerce committee. Senator Dill, democratic Washington, is writing it into a bill that would set up a federal commission to regulate all forms of communication.

Dill said today he would complete this section of the measure this week. The committee has ended extensive hearings on the bill and will report it as soon as the tariff department is over.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, author of the bill and chairman of the committee, asked the radio commissioners to suggest a plan after they had testified that present regulatory provisions of the radio act were unworkable.

"The commission itself as well as existing plan of dividing the facilities," Dill said, "it simply cannot be done. We want a formula by which the commission can be guided in equitable division of privileges, wavelengths, power of stations, and number of stations."

Another provision would require the commission to follow the formula precisely, and that appeals on deficiencies from it go to civil courts.

In order to meet difficulties arising out of proposals for division on a basis of three powers—population, area, or state's rights—the commission has proposed the following formula. Under it one-fourth of all

Labor Wins But Faces New Fight

London—(AP)—The government of J. Ramsay MacDonald, victor in one fight with its opposition, today looked forward to an impending more dangerous tilt a week from now when the coal mines controversy is resumed.

The Conservative motion of censure blaming the government for the general depression failed to pass the house of commons last night after a lengthy debate by vote of 208 to 235, a majority of 73 for the government.

In opening the debate Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, predicted that the government probably would win, and about 25 Conservative members absented themselves from the house just before the division was taken.

Sir Herbert Samuel, speaking for the Liberals, in an opening address announced his party would support the government, but he predicted that unemployment would "wash away" the government.

Inclusion of the safeguarding, or protective tariff issue, in the Conservative motion of censure alienated Liberal support.

Mr. MacDonald himself was not present at the debate, and was said to be in no wise perturbed in expectation of a defeat, since a tacit truce seems to have prevailed until after the naval conference shall have been concluded, when the labor prime minister almost certainly will have to fight to maintain his government.

WOUNDED RUM RUNNER SUSPECT MAKES ESCAPE

Lorain, Ohio—(AP)—Fred Hentze, 42, Detroit, alleged rum runner, supposedly bed-ridden from wounds received when coast guardsmen shelled his armor-plated tug, escaped from a hospital here last night.

Despite two serious bullet wounds in his back which lured his guard into a feeling of security, Hentze arose from his cot and leaped through a ground floor window. An automobile was standing outside with the engine running, police learned. It was traced to a Cleveland gangster by a license number.

Hentze's condition was regarded as critical and federal authorities were awaiting his recovery to remove him to Cleveland for arraignment on charges of smuggling and violating the prohibition laws.

Frank Smith, Hentze's companion on the Sambo G, captured March 6 with Canadian liquor and beer valued at more than $75,000 aboard, is being held in the county jail at Cleveland under $7,500 bond.

A coast guard cutter fired on the Sambo G, whose sides were reinforced with plates of iron, when the tug failed to heed orders to halt. After a barrage of one-pound shells, guardsmen boarded the tug and found Hentze wounded.

APPLETON MAN GETS $250 FINE AND SIX MONTH JAIL TERM

Milwaukee—(AP)—Charles Dishno, Appleton, was fined $250 and sentenced to six months in the house of correction yesterday when he was found guilty on a house charge.

John Kazmierczak, Forest-co, came into court on crutches and without an attorney. He made an attempt to ask leniency because of his condition, but told the judge he never would go back into the bootlegging business. He was fined $100.

New Allocation Proposal Made By Radio Commission

Washington—(AP)—The Federal Radio commission has submitted to congress a new plan for a division of radio broadcasting facilities among the 48 states.

Abandoning the present policy of allocating broadcasting privileges on a basis of population—laid down by congress in the Davis amendment, the plan would provide a formula for the division based on population, area and a so-called "principle of state's rights." The latter factor would give each state an equal part of one-fourth of all available facilities.

The proposed revision is before the senate interstate commerce committee. Senator Dill, democratic Washington, is writing it into a bill that would set up a federal commission to regulate all forms of communication.

Dill said today he would complete this section of the measure this week. The committee has ended extensive hearings on the bill and will report it as soon as the tariff department is over.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, author of the bill and chairman of the committee, asked the radio commissioners to suggest a plan after they had testified that present regulatory provisions of the radio act were unworkable.

WAY OPENED FOR 3-POWER NAVAL PACT

Japanese Claim for 70 Per Cent Ratio Ironed Out by Two Nations

London—(AP)—The American and Japanese naval delegations were said in well informed quarters this afternoon to have achieved an agreement which is dependent only on confirmation from the home authorities.

Senator Reed and Ambassador Matsudaira, two old friends who have been thrashing out the complicated difficulties between the two countries, met again this morning and observers were led to believe that they had discussed final details.

The big task which they are reported to have all but accomplished included settlement of the Japanese claim for a 70 per cent cruiser ratio. This has been the outstanding stumbling block since the beginning of negotiations.

Just what settlement is projected was not indicated, but well informed persons believe it was involved and included concessions on both sides.

Observers said that if this agreement has been achieved it is not only one of the outstanding features of the conference but is of paramount importance at this moment.

This is so because it would permit of a three-power agreement between the United States, Great Britain and Japan if the conference failed to settle the French question and the Franco-Italian problem.

The impression obtains in well informed circles that the United States, Great Britain and Japan have been trying to rush through their agreements so as to get set for a possible three-power pact in the event France and Italy could not participate.

The Japanese demands were the last outstanding questions to be settled among these three powers.

Secretary of State Stimson, who shared the task of pulling the naval conference from the brink of deadlock yesterday, today was assuming an even more important role in the direction of the negotiations.

A meeting between the secretary and Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy this afternoon featured renewed pledges of the conference. The Italian minister later will see Foreign Minister Laval of France.

From all directions pressure was being brought to bear on the Franco-Italian deadlock. The British prime minister yesterday pulled the conference from the brink of a precipice, not as head of the British delegation but as chairman of the conference charged with keeping the machinery going, and today Secretary Stimson was hard at work on the negotiations.

HUGE TAX REFUND GIVEN U. S. STEEL CORPORATION

Washington—(AP)—Chairman Hawley of the joint committee of internal revenue legislation announced today the committee had approved a tax refund of $33,555,356 for the United States Steel corporation for the tax years 1918, 1919 and 1920, proposed by the internal revenue bureau.

This action brings to a close the long controversy which has been carried on between the corporation and the treasury department on over-assessments claimed for those years. Hawley said the refund probably would be formally executed not later than tomorrow and would either be paid to the company in cash or in the form of a credit on its taxes for other years.

CHEMICAL FIRM PLANT DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Everett, Mass.—(AP)—Explosion, accompanied by frequent explosions, early today destroyed the Merrimack Chemical company plant at South Everett with a loss of $500,000. Firemen from eight cities fought the flames. Six were overcome and 100 others were affected by the sulphuric fumes. Seven buildings, three and four story wooden structures, together with much equipment, were burned.

A number of cars in the repair yards of the Boston Elevated system also were destroyed when the fire spread.

A stiff wind carried the smoke and fumes toward the heart of the city and 500 families were ordered to leave their tenements.

The fire started in the lacquer building of the plant and spread rapidly. The first alarm was sounded at 1:15 a. m. and the flames were brought under control at 2:30 a. m. During the war the plant was used for the manufacture of T. N. T.

Superior—(AP)—Alex Nagaup, a Chippewa Indian, must leave his home on the banks of the Eau Claire river, looking way for a paid claim. This was decided today by a jury which is sitting at Waterloo.

The jury found that Nagaup's 20-acre tract on the bank is a portion of the view of floodplain right reserved by the Gordon Farm company, which will clear its land where Nagaup's home is.

Fall's Explanation Of Loan Barred From Doheny Trial

Defense Gains Point When Judge Rules Against Its Introduction

Washington—(AP)—The defense scored in the bribery trial of Edward L. Doheny today when Justice Hitz upheld its contention that the untrue explanation made by Albert E. Fall to the senate oil committee as to where he received $100,000 in 1921 could not be introduced against Doheny.

The letter written in December, 1923, told the committee that Fall, then secretary of the interior, had borrowed the $100,000 from Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post and that he had not received money from Doheny or Harry M. Sinclair.

The defense argued that the letter could not be introduced against Doheny as he knew nothing of its contents and did not know Fall was sending the communication. The prosecution argued that it was admissible to show that Fall was trying to protect Doheny.

L. C. Vinney, solicitor of the interior department, was called as a government witness as soon as Justice Hitz had made his ruling. As assistant secretary of interior under Fall he negotiated and signed the Pearl Harbor oil storage contract which contained a clause that resulted in the lease of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve to Doheny's company.

The government read to the jury Doheny's testimony before the senate oil committee in 1921 in which the oil man testified that he had counted on Fall repaying the $100,000 advanced him by Doheny after leaving the cabinet if not before.

The oil man testified he expected to employ Fall when he left the cabinet and that Fall then would repay the loan, which the government charges was a bribe.

The prosecution also placed before the jury the testimony before the senate oil committee of Edwin Denby, former secretary of the navy, in which he admitted that he knew nothing of the details of the Elk Hills lease which he had signed.

PRISON CHAPLAIN SUPPORTS DRY LAW

Says Conditions Have Improved and Credits This to Prohibition

Washington—(AP)—The house judiciary committee today recessed its prohibition hearings until next Wednesday after hearing mission works of New York and Philadelphia uphold the prohibition laws as having improved conditions materially.

The lights along the "Great White Way" of New York may sparkle just as brightly as a decade ago, but in the opinion of John Callahan, the chaplain at the Tombs prison, an amazing change has taken place. He told the committee it was a chance for the better and he attributed it to prohibition.

"I hope to God the dry law will stay on the books and be more consistently enforced," were the words he left in the committee record to combat the previous testimony by the anti-prohibition group that since enactment of the eighteenth amendment crime has increased and conditions grown worse.

Callahan was the second witness of the day. Before him Raymond Robins, Chicago social worker, likewise had made the assertion that Alfred L. Smith, had been defeated as Democratic presidential nominee because of his stand on prohibition.

When Smith signed a bill repealing the New York state prohibition enforcement act, Robins asserted, he became the "country's chief milliner under the flag." He argued that Smith's being a member of the Catholic faith had won him many votes as a result.

VILLAGE PRESIDENT'S HOME AGO BOMBED

Chicago—(AP)—The home of William Evans, president of the suburban village of Woodview, was bombed early today for the second time in less than two months.

The bomb, placed at the head of the steps leading to the front porch, wrecked the porch and broke every window in the two-story house. Evans was in bed and was not injured.

A brakeman on a freight train that was being switched on a track nearby said he saw two men run from the house just before the explosion.

When the first bomb was exploded Jan. 13, police said they thought it had been placed at the wrong house but asserted today the same mistake could not have been made twice. Evans said he had received no warning before either of the attacks and knew of no reason for them.

SISTER OF MRS. TAFT SUCCUMBS IN PARIS

Washington—(AP)—Mrs. Helen H. Taft, the widow of the late chief justice, has received word of the death of her sister, Mrs. Charles Anderson, in Paris, France. The death occurred yesterday, resulting from a sudden heart attack. Mrs. Taft was informed by a cablegram which was received last night.

INDIAN SQUATTER MUST LEAVE HOME, JURY SAYS

Superior—(AP)—Alex Nagaup, a Chippewa Indian, must leave his home on the banks of the Eau Claire river, looking way for a paid claim. This was decided today by a jury which is sitting at Waterloo.

The jury found that Nagaup's 20-acre tract on the bank is a portion of the view of floodplain right reserved by the Gordon Farm company, which will clear its land where Nagaup's home is.

ONLY ONE LINK STILL NEEDED IN RAIL CHAIN

Part of Western Pacific Required to Complete Transcontinental Road

Cleveland, Ohio—(AP)—Formation of America's first transcontinental railroad system under control of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, is near completion, it was learned in financial circles here today. Only one more railroad is needed to complete the Van Sweringen coast to coast chain, according to the information of various railroad financial observers.

Already in control of a large railroad system covering northern states from the Atlantic ocean to the Mississippi river, the Van Sweringens, according to good authority, have acquired recently a working control of the Missouri Pacific system, which covers important trunk lines as far west as Salt Lake City, as far southwest as El Paso, Texas, and connecting with the International Great Northern railroad from Mexico at Laredo, Texas.

The Missouri Pacific control has been acquired, financial observers said, through quiet buying of its common stock and convertible bonds.

The only remaining link believed necessary to join the Atlantic and Pacific by a railroad system under the Van Sweringen management is the Western Pacific from Salt Lake City to San Francisco.

The transcontinental system as figured out by railroad men would connect it as follows:

Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Buffalo to New York; Nickel Plate, Buffalo to St. Louis; Missouri Pacific, St. Louis to Pueblo, Colo.; Denver, Rio Grande and Western, Pueblo to Salt Lake City; and Western Pacific from Salt Lake City to San Francisco.

There are several alternate routes that could be used in the system, east of the Mississippi river.

Through the Denver, Rio Grande and Western railroad, one of the subsidiaries of the Missouri Pacific, the Van Sweringens have a "friendly" control with the Western Pacific. The Missouri Pacific owns a half interest in the D. R. G. and W., and the Western Pacific owns the other half of the same line.

If Van Sweringen ownership is favored by the Missouri Pacific, and railroad financiers feel certain it is, the Van Sweringens are not likely to have trouble effecting a working arrangement with the Western Pacific.

COMMISSION MUST ACT

When the Interstate Commerce commission would approve a unified transcontinental railroad system is unknown. However, the commission already has approved the Van Sweringen controlled Chesapeake and Ohio system in the east.

The Missouri Pacific system as established by the commission includes more than 10,000 miles of railroad.

Among the other railroads east of the Mississippi which might be used

BOOTLEGGERS FEUD BLAMED FOR SLAYING

Bayonne, N. J.—(AP)—A feud among North Jersey liquor racketeers was seen by police today in the slaying of a bootlegger, lying within a yard of a healthy bootlegger.

Henry Engel, who police said had acquired a modest fortune as a bootlegger and hijacker, was fatally wounded last night by four men within a few feet of his speakeasy in this city.

He had just left a drug store when the four men standing in back of a red sedan automobile opened fire with a machine gun. He ran back to the store with the stream of bullets following him until he dropped. The men then sped away in their car.

He died in a hospital 40 minutes later without regaining consciousness. He was 11 years old and married.

The police said Engel had been connected with Frankie Dunn, a fired beer runner, who was shot and killed in Hoboken, N. J., last Friday by four men, but whether he was a friend or enemy of Dunn the police were unable to say.

On March 2 Engel reported to the police that five men had called him to the front of his place and after waving guns in his face had driven away.

DEMAND LEWIS RESIGN AS MINERS' CHIEFTAIN

Indianapolis—(AP)—Demands that John L. Lewis resign immediately as international president of the United Mine Workers of America were contained in resolutions submitted to the thirty-first convention here today.

Levens testified that he understood the 52 per cent was to be paid as dividend rather than as interest.

Ogilvie also was on the stand for a short time late yesterday, but little of his testimony went into the record because of continual objections from the defense.

Heindrickson planned to revise his line of questioning today after Judge Ellison warned him he has not qualified Ogilvie as capable of testifying on the subject of defective cigars.

Ogilvie said Huckins was employed by the General Cigar company as a salesman about 10 years ago.

The state did not expect to conclude its case today. Questioning proceeding slowly with several witnesses yet to be heard.

FUND USED TO FILL DEMANDS, WITNESS SAYS

Quarter Million Kept in Home When Pressure Resulted from "Flareup"

NOTES WERE NOT PAID

Witness Declares Mother Mortgaged Home to Invest With "Wizard"

Cedar Rapids, Iowa—(AP)—William Spens testified today in George Huckins' trial on charge of obtaining money under false pretense that last August he guarded a quarter million dollars in Huckins' home here. He said he was told the money was to pay investors in Wisconsin who had demanded cash after "a flare-up in Wisconsin."

Spens, former manager of the Cedar Rapids Baseball club of the Mississippi Valley league, while it was owned by George Huckins, said he had invested $15,750 with Huckins' father, Elmer S. Huckins, Hancock, Wis., who took some of the $250,000 back to Wisconsin with him.

Spens said that on four different occasions between October 1927, and September, 1929, he invested a sum with Elmer Huckins for which he received promissory notes. He asserted the principal on none of them had been paid and added that he last received a dividend last November.

Of the $15,750, Spens said that he obtained $5,450 from his widowed mother in Toledo, Ohio, who mortgaged her home to obtain the funds.

Spens said he had this at the instance of George Huckins, who told him "have your other self" her home. "She'll be sitting pretty."

Defense attorneys made repeated objections to Spens' testimony. Judge P. O. Ellison, however, permitted it to go into the record.

Spens also said he borrowed $5,000 in Dubuque, last September to invest with the Huckins. He collaborated the testimony of Emil Levens, former pitcher for the Cleveland club of the American league who is the complaining witness in the present case, that George Huckins said he and his father operated a wholesale business in "second" cigars.

Spens said that last August he received a telephone call asking him to come to George Huckins' home to guard $250,000. He said he stayed in the house about a week.

Spens said he saw a bag of money which they said belonged to Mr. Ransover, he said. Walter J. Ransover is one of George Huckins' attorneys.

Spens said he did not count the money but that he saw several packages of bills and United States government bonds. Elmer Huckins, George's father, was in the house at the time, he said, and took some of the funds back with him to Wisconsin.

Spens asserted that both George and Elmer Huckins told him the only way their business could fail was for all the banks, railroads and express companies "to go broke at once." He said that although he first discussed an investment with George Huckins, the latter turned him over to his father, saying that Elmer Huckins had more openings for investors at that time.

County Attorney Carl Heindrickson called G. S. Ogilvie, Des Moines, supervisor for the General Cigar company, to testify regarding the disposal of imperfect cigars by manufacturers.

LEAVEN TESTIMONY

Levens said on the witness stand yesterday in opening this states case, that he invested $300 with Huckins after the latter told him he and his father conducted a $20,000 business in wholesale cigars known in the trade as "seconds." Levens testified he was promised 52 per cent interest on a 60-day promissory note signed by Huckins and his father last October but that he never received either principal or interest.

Illegality of the note because it carried interest above the legal rate was claimed by the defense objecting to its admission as evidence. Defense counsel said it represented an offense by all parties concerned, but Judge P. O. Ellison admitted the document.

Levens testified that he understood the 52 per cent was to be paid as dividend rather than as interest.

Ogilvie also was on the stand for a short time late yesterday, but little of his testimony went into the record because of continual objections from the defense.

Heindrickson planned to revise his line of questioning today after Judge Ellison warned him he has not qualified Ogilvie as capable of testifying on the subject of defective cigars.

Ogilvie said Huckins was employed by the General Cigar company as a salesman about 10 years ago.

The state did not expect to conclude its case today. Questioning proceeding slowly with several witnesses yet to be heard.

Convict Killed After Slaying Guard, Wounding Two

MAKES VAIN ATTEMPT TO FLEE PRISON

Seizes Pistol After Slugging Guard in New Jersey Penitentiary

Trenton, N. J. (AP)—The attempt of Charles Evans, 29, a double life convict, to shoot his way out of the state prison here last night ended in his death after he had killed one guard and wounded two others.

Frank Butcher, a guard, died in a hospital from bullet wounds suffered in the gun fight with the convict. Charles Evans, another guard, was slugged with a blackjack, and Ernest Gordon, a third guard, suffered a bullet wound in the shoulder. He claimed that it was a bullet from his pistol that killed Evans.

Prison attaches said Evans opened his attack about 7:30 p. m. by felling Soren with an improvised blackjack and seizing his pistol. As the guard was struck he called for help and Butcher and Gordon went to his aid.

Evans backed into an empty cell and opened fire on the guards. In the exchange of shots Butcher was wounded twice, in the head and near the heart. The desperado and Gordon continued to fire at each other until Evans fell with a bullet wound in the head which killed him.

Until his attempted break for liberty, Evans, since his imprisonment in January, 1919, had been a model prisoner and had been employed as a clerk in the prison office.

GROCCERS PLAN TO MEET COMPETITION OF CHAIN STORES

Will Try Cooperative Buying and Warehousing System

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright 1930 by Cons. Press

Washington — Cooperation is a word which is coming to mean more in business even than in agriculture. This trend has undoubtedly been broadened by the growth and expansion of the chain store idea. The individual grocer and merchant have had to take measures to combat the advantages possessed by the chains and they have turned toward cooperative buying, cooperative shipping and cooperative warehousing.

In pursuance of this plan, an experiment in cooperative warehousing is shortly to be tried in Philadelphia by units of the wholesale grocer trade, according to Robert F. Miller, executive vice president of the Associated Grocers Manufacturers of America.

The plan of the group involved includes central warehousing with accompanying economies and distribution. The merchandise carried will cover canned foods and package foods, soaps, cleaners, extracts, beverages, salt, sugar, matches, tea, coffee, chocolate, baking powder, hard candies, paper and other forms of package or specialty merchandise sold as groceries.

PUPILS ARE URGED TO ENTER CONTEST

Chance to Win Money for Washington Trip Is Offered by Merchants

Notices were sent out this week by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, urging all rural school students to enter the contest being sponsored by the Appleton Home Merchants' association, in which cash prizes totaling $205 will be awarded to winners in the double contest, one section for the rural schools and the other for Appleton schools.

A full explanation of the contest is given by Mr. Meating. Twenty questions and statements will appear in advertisements in the Appleton Post-Crescent and these are to be answered by the contestants. The advertisements started Monday, March 3, and appeared on every Monday and Wednesday following. The ads will always be found on page 2 of the Post-Crescent.

If students have missed any of the advertisements they may write the Appleton Home Merchants' association for copies.

All advertisements should be saved by contestants until they have the 20 and they are to be sent to the home merchants' association with answers.

Judges of the contest will be Mr. Meating, a representative of the Post-Crescent, and Stephen Balliet, president of the merchants' association.

SELECT DEBATERS TO ARGUE JURY QUESTION

Two debate teams have been chosen by Miss Agnes Huberty, high school debate coach, to participate in debates on the question: Resolved, that the American jury system be abolished. The first debate will be held by Richard Balliet and Robert Mortimer on the affirmative team and Fred Marshall and Chester Dorschner on the negative side. William Zuehlke and Vernon Beckman for the affirmative and Ethel Schenck for the negative will give the second debate. A third debate will be given in the high school auditorium by the four students.

EARLY CHOICE SEEN FOR HIGH COURT'S POST

Southern Area Believed to Have Hoover's Favor for Sanford Berth

Washington (AP)—President Hoover is prepared to make an early decision on the choice of a successor of the late Associate Justice Edward T. Sanford of the supreme court.

Confronted with a host of names, the president is believed by those who have conferred with him still to have an open mind. They also lean to the belief that he is running the southern field.

Justice Sanford came from Tennessee. He was a Republican, but even should a Democrat be named in his place it would leave the makeup of the court, five Republicans and four Democrats.

Several names are before the president from the south, including Senator George of Georgia, Judge Samuel Sibley of the Georgia Federal court, Walter C. Stacy, justice of the North Carolina Supreme court, and Judge John J. Parker of the federal circuit court of appeals, fourth district. All are Democrats except Parker.

There are prospects of strong movement for both Senator Borah of Idaho, and Judge William S. Kenyon, of the federal circuit court and a former Republican senator from Iowa. Both are identified with the liberal class. Borah waged the fight against the Hughes confirmation.

But if those who believe the president will avoid the issue recently raised in the senate in the Hughes fight are correct, he probably will steer clear of anyone identified with that contest.

The name of John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee of 1924 and prominent lawyer, continues to be heard in the discussion. Mr. Davis comes from West Virginia.

Another section believed to be receiving the president's attention is the third circuit, including the states of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware. This area is now without representation.

TOKEN OF AFFECTION ALSO PROVES TO BE TOKEN OF HIS ARREST

Chicago (AP)—Leading half of an ace of hearts, Calvin Hallan took 19 cards and $470, but lost the deal to police.

In a touching ceremony last spring, Hallan signified his affection for Peggy O'Neill by tearing up an ace of hearts, giving her half of it and saying "that's half of my heart. When I give you the other half you'll know that you have my love forever and ever."

Shortly afterward in a darkened movie, Miss O'Neill signified her affection by slipping into Hallan's pocket an envelope and whispering "It's something I might lose. You keep it safe for me."

The next time she heard from Hallan he was in Los Angeles. He sent the other half of the ace of hearts and wrote, "I can never tell you how sorry I am about carrying away what you told me to keep safe. If you forgive me, send a whole ace of hearts as a sign."

She sent not only the ace but every other heart in the deck as well, and their reunion was arranged to be staged in a Chicago hotel lobby.

Yesterday at the appointed time he walked in, saw her, opened his arms, and was surrounded by three police men.

"Lock him up," said the girl, "and the charge is theft. There was $470 in that envelope I gave him."

LENTEEN SERVICES FILL CHURCHES AS EASTER APPROACHES

Huge Crowds Attend Mission Services at St. Joseph Church

The resignation of the rector of All Saints Episcopal church, the Rev. H. S. Gately and the opening of a Missions at St. Joseph church were the outstanding matters of interest in the church world this week.

The Rev. Mr. Gately, rector of the Episcopal church for the past four years, will leave for a long rest at his home in Buffalo, N. Y. Bishop Harwood Sturtevant will be in charge of Lenten services and supply ministers will fill the pulpit on Sunday. For the next three Sundays a professor from the Episcopal seminary at Nashotah will conduct the services.

The Mission at St. Joseph church this week for women and next for men, is being preached by the Rev. Father Stanton of Schram, N. D., and the Rev. Father Jordan of Minnesota. The crowds at the church have been so great that it has become necessary to set up a radio arrangement so the evening sermons can be extended to St. Joseph hall, where the overflow is accommodated.

All the Boy Scouts of the city were the guests of Troop 8 at the Congregational moving picture service Sunday evening. Addresses were given by M. G. Clark, Dr. R. V. Landis and William Probert and the picture presented was "Buttons" featuring Jackie Coogan.

ANNIVERSARY MEETING

The fifth anniversary of the dedication of the new Trinity English Lutheran church building was observed at that church Sunday morning. The Rev. D. E. Bosserman preached on The Only Foundation.

Miss Gladys Ives Brainard, well known pianist and Dr. O. P. Fairfield of Lawrence college gave the twilight vesper program at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon. Miss Brainard, accompanied by Hudson Bacon at the second piano, played Liszt's "E Flat Minor Concerto," and Dr. Fairfield talked on "Art in Religion. Plans for the Lenten season were made at a meeting of the church board Tuesday evening.

The German Lenten service at St. Matthew church Wednesday evening was preached by the pastor's father, the Rev. A. Froehke of Neenah and the English service Thursday evening by the Rev. Louis Melke of Shiocton. Sunday the Rev. A. C. Froehke preached on the third chapter of Acts, Monday a congregational meeting was held and Thursday the Ladies Aid meeting met.

The Rev. P. Bolliger, D. D. of Madison, superintendent of the Home Mission board of the Reformed church, preached at the First Reformed church Thursday evening. Lantern slides on the life of Christ

WOULD ROUTE HIGHWAY THROUGH WRIGHTSTOWN

J. H. Vreede, Wrightstown, and George Krautkramer, West De Pere, were in Appleton Thursday conferring with Kenneth Corbett, chamber of commerce secretary on matters pertaining to the routing of Highway 41 via Wrightstown, to eliminate railroad crossings at McCarty's crossing and at other points between Kaukauna and Green Bay.

The town representatives are seeking the cooperation of the chamber road committee in presenting their plans to the state highway commission, according to Mr. Corbett. The matter is to be submitted at the next meeting of the chamber road committee, Mr. Corbett stated.

ASTRONOMICALLY, THE DISCOVERY IS RECORDED AS THE GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT SINCE THE LOCATION OF NEPTUNE, THE EIGHTH PRIMARY PLANET OF THE SOLAR SYSTEM, IN 1846.

The task now remains to determine its size, exact distance from the earth, its orbit and other planetary characteristics.

The discovery was accomplished much in the same manner as the finding of Neptune in 1846. Tombaugh, a student scientist from Kansas, came to the observatory a year ago and has been working with the new Lawrence Lowell telescope, exposing and examining the planets under the direction of senior members of the staff.

"While I was peering through the comparator at a plate, something new flickered before my eyes," Tombaugh said. "At first I thought it simply an illusion, but I looked at some more of the plates and finally realized that I had stumbled onto an important discovery. "Blotch Of Light" Proves World Larger Than Earth

Flagstaff, Ariz. (AP)—Discovery of a new world, probably larger than the earth, brought to mathematical astronomy today its second achievement of the kind.

The new and nameless planet, whose actual presence in trans-Neptunian space was first detected last Jan. 21 by an astronomy-loving farmer boy from Kansas, was heralded yesterday by an announcement here yesterday by Dr. V. M. Slipher of the Lowell observatory.

A strange "blotch of light," on a photographic negative, registered by an extremely delicate instrument at the observatory, led to the discovery. The speck of light was noticed by Clyde Tombaugh, the young student of astronomy and this led to detection of the heavenly body, bringing the known number of major planets in the solar system to nine.

The location of the new body on Jan. 12, was fixed at three hours Greenwich time, seven seconds west from Delta Gemmorum with Lowell's predicted longitude. It is approximately forty-five times farther from the earth than the sun and is "at least no smaller than the earth." Like Neptune, it cannot be seen by the naked eye.

Astronomically, the discovery is recorded as the greatest achievement since the location of Neptune, the eighth primary planet of the solar system, in 1846. The task now remains to determine its size, exact distance from the earth, its orbit and other planetary characteristics.

Argentina supplied the United States with more than 50 per cent of hides and skins imported during 1929.

Whether or not the new planet is inhabited is a matter for further calculations, but scientists agree that it may be as large as Jupiter, the greatest of the planets, which is 1,200 times the size of the earth.

WOMANS CLUB, IN TIGHT PLACE, CUTS DOWN ACTIVITIES

Lack of Interest in Club's Work Blamed for Financial Troubles

The Appleton Womens club re-frenched once more on its program Tuesday afternoon when it decided at a general meeting to cut down all activities for one year and merely hold the clubhouse as a civic center. The office of secretary will be retained, with the provision that any time during the year the nature of this office can be changed.

Last summer the club, faced with a dark financial situation eliminated two of its workers, the dramatic director and the executive secretary, and abbreviated its program. It was hoped that an improvement in the finances of the club would permit a come-back within a year. However, with the semi-failure of their financial campaign in the fall and the change in recreational directors necessitated by the resignation of Mrs. Berden Kline, the situation became worse instead of better.

FACE LACK OF INTEREST

Thursday a small group of the more enthusiastic club workers, confronted with an obvious lack of interest in the club, a decreased demand for the type of service offered by the organization, and an increasing debt with small prospect for financial rehabilitation, discussed the future policy of the club at a general meeting.

Although reluctant to sound the death knell to an organization that had thrived for years, and that had held a prominent place in the community, there was some sentiment in favor of absolute disbandment. Other suggestions offered were that, with the cooperation of the city council, a social worker be substituted for the recreational director, thereby changing the entire purpose of the club; that the cooperation of Appleton clubs in providing funds for club maintenance and social service work be sought; that the club mark time for a year, maintaining the clubhouse and abolish temporarily the civic program, and extend all effort in the accumulation of funds to be used as a working nucleus in the future; the extension of social activities; the pledging of personal responsibility toward the upkeep of the club; and an affiliation with the Y. W. C. A.

WOULD RENT CLUBHOUSE

The renting of the playhouse for a cripple children's school, a campaign to draw members into a more unified group, the appointment of a committee to confer with other civic workers in a search for a single worthy objective for the club, and the promotion of a woman's exchange were other plans offered by members.

Mrs. William Crow, president of the club, presented the financial situation of the organization, pointing out that a self-respecting organization must have enough money to meet its obligations and a certain amount of money in the treasury. The clubhouse, estimated to be worth $23,000, with a resale value of about $15,000, bears a mortgage of $1,500. The club owes the health department $800, borrowed from the annual Christmas seal sale proceeds. Of this amount $500 has already been used to meet a note, and $300 remains in the treasury. The clubhouse needs redecorating, which will probably cost $500. Running expenses until the annual financial campaign in October will amount to about $1,500, of which $1,250 will be paid out in salary to the recreational director, and $250 to an assistant camp director.

$738 OUTSTANDING

Offsetting these obligations are the possibility of still collecting $738 pledged in the campaign last fall, and the hope of raising $55 at the card party to be given on Saturday. It was estimated that the recreational director needs about 150 Girl Scouts, 20 girls in the Sunday afternoon cozy, 48 mills girls and 11 girls in dramatic work. Mrs. R. N. Clapp, office secretary, stated that the employment agency had handled about 250 cases since last May, a few social service cases, and that the social calendar for the club and playhouse had been handled through the office.

Mrs. Crow, attributing much of the decreased interest in the club to the growth in smaller clubs, stated that there are about 15 study clubs and about 30 weekly or bi-weekly card clubs, and that these clubs and church groups are claiming the interest of women whereas the Womens club formerly held it. Love Laughs at Prison Bars

Love laughs at locks and bars and so, a jail corridor was the aisle and a cell was the altar for the marriage ceremony that united an erring youth and a girl whose love transcended the obstacle of prison walls at Cincinnati, O. Catherine Schweitzer, 20, and Felix Barbee, 22, were married in the Hamilton county jail, where they are pictured above, a few days before the bridegroom left for Columbus to start a 10-year term in the Ohio penitentiary for robbery.

Inability to interest younger women in the club work was pointed out as one of the reasons for the decreased membership.

The opinion was expressed that the recreational department had outlived its usefulness, and that there was small profit in "trying to raise a lot of money to do something that doesn't want to be done."

A concluding statement by the president made clear that starting

May 1 the Appleton Womens club would develop into whatever Appleton women wanted it to be.

It also was decided to permit the Girl Scouts to continue to use the clubhouse for their meetings. Some of the reticence to abandon the recreational program was based on the fear that the Girl Scouts, now a very healthy organization would be without leadership, but this fear

CHURCH UNABLE TO ACCOMMODATE CROWD

Set Up Loud Speaker in St. Joseph Hall to Reach Overflow Crowd

With all space in St. Joseph church, including the aisles, the sanctuary and the sacristy, packed with women intent upon hearing the mission sermons delivered by the Rev. Father Stanton and the Rev. Father Jordan, missionaries, it has become necessary to set up loud speakers to broadcast the sermons in the auditorium to St. Joseph hall to accommodate the overflow. Approximately 200 women hear the lectures of the priests in the school hall every evening.

Father Stanton and his assistant, Father Jordan, the former from North Dakota and the latter from Minnesota, preach on alternate nights. This week's mission is for women, and Sunday night a week of services will begin for the men. Evening services are held at 7:30 every night, and instructions are given at 6 and 8 o'clock each morning. Stations of the Cross are held at 2 o'clock every afternoon.

was allayed by the statement that the Girl Scout commission would assume charge of the scouts. The question of leaving the membership fee at $5.00 or returning to the former one dollar dues was left for the new board to decide.

Nelson Scoffs At "Yellow Peril" In Philippines

HAS NO FEAR OF CONQUEST BY JAPANESE

Says Propaganda Against Independence Prompted by Selfishness

Washington — (AP)—Referring to what he termed the "bugaboo" of Japanese imperialism, Representative Nelson of Wisconsin, said in the house today that nothing could be more erroneous than the assumption that freeing the Philippines would invite Japanese conquest of the islands.

Nelson said he had made an extensive study of the problem in the Pacific, and that propaganda which leads Americans to believe Japanese aggression in the Philippines was "fearful, atrocious, and selfish."

"It is not a curious fact," he asked, "that only those who are opposed to Philippine independence are fearful of Japanese imperialism?"

Nelson listed the Philippine American Chamber of Commerce of New York, the Industrial Workers of the World, the Navy League, the Exclusion League, the American Legion, and the "yellow press," among those agencies which he said had at one time or another spread propaganda against Japan because of selfish interests.

"As a part of this propaganda against Philippine independence," he declared, "members of congress have received other circulars and letters from financial interests doubtless inspired by the same cause."

REFERS TO INQUIRY

The Wisconsin Republican referred to testimony before the senate territories committee by representatives of the Philippine American Chamber of Commerce, which he said was to show that this trade group of 81 firms had spent a considerable sum to fight the Philippine independence movement. He said their avowed object was to promote commerce between the United States and the Philippines, but that for course their stock objection is Japan.

"If the 'white peril' would only pay a little more respect to the principle of the golden rule," Nelson asserted, "there would be little cause to fear the 'yellow peril'."

He added that for 50 years Japan had been a "true friend of the United States."

He said he would not defend Japan's conquest of Formosa, and Korea, but asserted these extensions of Japanese power had been effected with the consent of the United States based on the open door American statement, that she could formulate a pacific doctrine modelled after the Monroe doctrine.

"To take over the Philippine Islands would but increase Japan's present almost insurmountable colonial problems," he asserted. "Japan knows well what her problem would be if she seized a European country, attempted to hold in subjection a Christian Oriental country."

"When once granted independence, the Philippines have no fear that Japan or any other country will deprive them of their freedom."

SUNSET PLAYERS PUT ON PLAY TONIGHT

"The Queen's Husband," a three act comedy in costume, will be presented by the Sunset Players, Lawrence college dramatic organization, in the Memorial chapel tonight. The performance begins at 8:15.

The play is built around a modern setting of foreign political intrigue, centering in the domination of a subjected king by his dogmatic spouse. Excellent humor is brought out in almost every line and situation, and the affairs of the royal family, the plans of the revolutionists, and the downfall of the bureaucrats in power, all afford excellent entertainment for the audience. Robert Emmett Sherwood, the author of the play, has taken his characters from real life.

DEATH CAR DRIVER IS SENT TO REFORMATORY

ZELIE ON TICKET FOR 1ST WARD ALDERMAN

Mrs. Ruby Earle Declines "Nomination" in Second Ward

Clarence Zelie, whose name was written in on the primary election ballot for alderman from the First ward, has stated that he will accept the nomination. Zelie will run in opposition to Mike Steinhauer. The name of Mrs. Ruby Earle, 217 E. North-st., was written in once in the Second ward, but Mrs. Earle has declined the nomination. Inasmuch as there was only one aspirant in the Second ward, C. D. Thompson, incumbent, the one name, Mrs. Earle would have given her a place on the ballot had she desired to enter the race.

COUNTY CLUB LEADERS TO HOLD MEETING HERE

Miss Elizabeth Salter, assistant state club leader, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of Outagamie-co 4-11 club leaders at the courthouse Saturday afternoon. Miss Salter will present ideas which she has gathered in other counties of the state, and instructions in club work will be given by Gus Sell, county agent, and Miss Harriet Thompson, county club leader. About 40 or 50 leaders are expected at the conference which is similar to the meeting held here last year. The Outagamie county department expects to have about 40 clubs with a membership of about 40 in the county this year.

SHIRESON'S LICENSE REVOKED IN ILLINOIS

Chicago — (AP)—The state of Illinois has stripped the title of "doctor" from Henry J. Schireson, self-styled "greatest of plastic surgeons." An order revoking Schireson's license, signed yesterday by Michael F. Walsh, director of education and registration, culminated charges brought by Miss Sadie Holland that Schireson induced her to submit to an operation "to straighten her bow legs." As a result of the operation, it was necessary to amputate both legs.

Dr. M. L. Harris, president of the American Medical association, headed the state medical committee which heard the charges against Schireson.

Among other things, Dr. Harris reported it found that Miss Holland did not have bow legs; that Schireson was not of good moral character; that he had been the owner of a "quack institute" and had twice served prison terms for quackery."

Among the celebrities Schireson listed as patients were Fannie Drice, "Teaches" Browning, Truly Shattuck and Sophie Tucker.

THINKS HOOVER WANTS BETTER SHOALS OFFER

Washington — (AP)—Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, testified today before the senate lobby committee that he did not believe President Hoover "has ever felt that just the right offer has been made for Muscle Shoals."

Questioned by the lobby committee for the third day concerning his activities in connection with Muscle Shoals legislation, Huston said President Hoover "has committed himself to no plan."

He added that he believed the Henry Ford offer for Muscle Shoals was a "wonderful opportunity for the government" while Hoover believed it could be improved. He said the same was true of the proposal of the American Cynamid offer to lease Muscle Shoals which now is before congress for consideration. Huston is a former president of the Tennessee River Improvement association which has advocated acceptance of the Cynamid bid.

Only One Link Needed To Complete Rail Chain

as the trunk route of the transcontinental line are the Erie and the Chesapeake and Ohio.

Realization of the extent to which the Van Swearingen's have bought into the Missouri Pacific developed this week with the announcement that the Allegheny corporation, their holding company, would borrow $37,500,000 on the Missouri Pacific bonds. Among the security pledged is $7,000,000 worth of Missouri Pacific 1 1/2 per cent convertible gold bonds, Series A; 100,000 shares of common stock, and 60,000 shares of convertible 5 per cent preferred stock.

The Missouri Pacific has outstanding $28,335 shares of common stock and $18,001 shares of the convertible preferred. It has asked the Interstate Commerce commission for permission to issue an additional $35,000 worth of common stock to fund accumulated unpaid interest amounting to $18.25 a share on its present preferred issue.

Financial circles reported the Van Swearingens or the Allegheny corporation now own at least a third of the Missouri Pacific common which generally is adequate for working control.

A transcontinental railroad system has been a fond dream of railroad builders and financiers for many years. Today, the Van Swearingens are closer to attainment of that goal than any of their predecessors.

Among the famous railroad men who once tried to build a transcontinental system were Collis P. Huntington, Jay Gould and E. H. Harriman.

DENIES CONTROL REPORT

St. Louis — (AP)—A source of information close to President L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific railroad, today was authoritative for the statement that if the Van Swearingen interests have acquired a working control of the Missouri Pacific "no official of the Missouri Pacific knows anything definite about it."

GIVE BACK OLD SIREN OR FIREMEN WILL QUIT

Burlington — (AP)—How dear to the heart of the Burlington Fire department is the old steam siren which once called them from bed to fight the flames.

Last night the council met with the volunteer fire fighters and sought to prove to them that an electric siren—the newest thing—would be better than steam. The proof was in vain.

Either bring back the steam siren or bid farewell to the volunteers was the ultimatum. The council considered capitulation.

THE GREATEST VALUES EVER—TUESDAY

Slight damage to the roof of the part of Potts-Wood and company creamery at Apple Creek was caused by a fire which broke out 12:30 Friday morning. EVIDENCE SHRINKS TO ODOR—WOMAN SET FREE

Milwaukee — (AP)—In 1927 when the Severon law was a law and not a memory, Mrs. Elizabeth Ilg's saloon was raided. Patrolman Oscar Butzlaff obtained a bottle as evidence.

Nine times the case was called and nine times postponed. Yesterday, Judge George Page looked down at Mrs. Ilg, in court at last. He scanned the mottle, opened it, sniffed and smiled.

"It seems time has taken its toll," he said. "In view of all the circumstances I shall suspend sentence on payment of costs."

The evidence was only an odor.

New Allocation Proposal Made By Radio Commission

facilities would be divided equally, each state and the District of Columbia receiving one of 19 equal parts. Another fourth of the available facilities would be divided among the states in proportion to their areas, and the other half would be allotted in proportion to population.

The total of privileges allotted each state, under the proposed formula, would be the sum of its share from each division of the facilities available. The present law groups states in five zones, each of which has approximately equal population and approximately an equal share of all facilities.

Revamping all provisions for control of radio broadcasting, the bill would set up a new framework of government regulation of communications. The bill would supersede the radio act and all policies now obtaining under it.

DENIES STATEMENT BY WOMAN AT DRY PROBE

Sheboygan — (AP)—Mrs. Gertrude Bowler, former national Democratic committeewoman and a member of the Sheboygan Women's club, today challenged testimony of Mrs. John F. Sippel, Baltimore, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, before the house judiciary committee at Washington. Mrs. Sippel said that 14,000 of the clubs favored prohibition.

"How can Mrs. Sippel and others say they speak for the whole organization and that it favors prohibition enforcement?" Mrs. Bowler asked. "Three-fourths of the Sheboygan club have joined the Women's National Prohibition Reform organization, and I know of other clubs in which the same is true."

The Oldtimer Asks--

Do You Remember When—
The teacher would ask us what song we wanted to sing at the opening exercises of the primary department in First ward school, and nearly always, a girl named Clara Sanborn would beat the rest of us to it and ask to have "Scatter Seeds of Kindness" sung?

Charlie Kimball used to be janitor in the old brown wooden school building on the First ward at Lawest and College-ave that was used temporarily for overflow school purposes for several years?

Len Hamlin could get music from a harmonica to make the rest of us jealous?

Buck's son-in-law John, John Eotensch and J. A. Hawes built their homes on the old Buck home site on College-ave between Union and Lawest-sts.

Ilydo and Harriman dug the water power canal east of the Richmond Paper mill site, and how it lay idle for years until the Manufacturing Investment company was formed by Grover Cleveland, W. C. Whitney, and others?

TELLS HOW HE FELT WHEN HE WAS FIRST TO SEE NEW WORLD

He Was Excited but Other Astronomers Calmly Kept Checking Data

Notes—Following was written for the Associated Press by Clyde Tombaugh of the Lowell observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., who was the first man to see the new trans-Neptunian planet.

Flagstaff, Ariz. —(P)—"How would you feel if you saw a new world giving you the high sign from beyond the rim of the solar system? That is what happened to me in the dark room when I was running another punch of photo plates through the machine.

"Just a strange flicker of starlight in a routine day's work."

"Excited? I should say so. That is no word for it. I just didn't know what to do or think, or how to act."

"Sure, I was the first to see it, but the whole Lowell staff has been working on it for a quarter of a century. I was just lucky. That was all there was to it."

"And what did the others say when I called them in to see it—well, you know how these astronomers are. They are used to thinking in terms of millions of years and millions of miles. They weren't excited. They said it might possibly be the luring Lowell planet, but they would have to watch it further to check it with data they had been gathering so long."

"This happened Feb. 18, and we have all been working on it ever since. Only last night did they feel sure enough about it to make an announcement—and even yet, there might be a mistake—but we don't think so."

"You know I am not a real astronomer—guess you couldn't call me one at all. I'm just interested in stars and have been all my life. When I was a kid back on the farm in Kansas an uncle used to tell me about the stars. Then I got all the books about stars and the skies I could find."

"One told me how to make a telescope. During the long winter months when we were snowed in, I monkeyed around with astronomical things. I even made a rude telescope, grinding my own lenses from directions out of this book."

"I guess my kid sister sized me up right in the high school prophesy at Bordette, Kas, for she had me dis-covering a new world."

"I guess I'll just keep on taking pictures of stars. That is what I like to do. I am studying Mars and the moon now. There is enough here to keep me busy for a long time."

MINNEAPOLIS AIR MAIL CONTINUES DECREASE

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington — Although the total number of pounds of mail carried by air over all airmail routes in the country increased in February the mail carried on the 503 mile Chicago-Minneapolis route continued its decline.

Only 13,121 pounds of mail were carried on the February route as compared with 14,199 in January, and 15,042 in December. Of course some of the decrease may have been caused by the fact of the shortness of February's 28 day-month, but this did not affect the country as a whole.

The total number of pounds of airmail carried in February was 555,176; as compared with 505,933 in January, it represents an increase of 10,243 pounds. February's daily average was 19,857 pounds, while January's was only 16,920.

"THE MEDICINE I SHOULD HAVE HAD AT FIRST"

Happy Man Says Konjola Gave Quick Relief In Troubles He Had Suffered For Three Years

MR. BART BURNETT

Konjola is the Master Medium of them all, said Mr. Bart Burnett, 1251 Elm St., Dubuque, Iowa. "It certainly worked wonders in my case and I shall recommend it. For three years my stomach was badly upset and food was not properly digested. My liver and bowels were sluggish in action and I suffered dreadfully from headaches, biliousness, and dizzy spells. Naturally, I became weak and ran down in every respect."

"I decided that Konjola must be worth a trial after reading so many endorsements in the paper. I started the treatment and had not been taking Konjola long before I realized it was the medicine I should have had at first. Now my stomach is in fine condition. My appetite has increased, and I have gained both in strength and energy. After my experience with Konjola, it is easy for me to understand why this medicine has won a million friends."

Konjola is sold in Appleton at Schmitz Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Here Are Some Smart Lounging Togs For Male Victims Of Spring Fever

BY CURTIS WOOD

New York—Spring being the time to take it easy and build up the old frame, is the psychological moment to invest in some kind of lounging togs.

Selecting them will be a merry business. You will find robes and pajama suits styled to the Nth degree. In fact, try a few different types of lounging things and see how they send your inferiority complex soaring up a few points. They'll make you look so smart, superior, and leisure class."

Sportswear's preference for color invades the lounging field too. New robes and suits are nothing if not pleasing in tone and vastly becoming to the men who wear them. Whether you are in the market for robes for travel on steamer, train or airplane, for beach wear, wear at swimming pools or for comfort in your own home, there are a lot of choices.

Silks and satins no longer are reserved for the women. Men can be as luxurious as they like. They can even have ensembles of pajamas, in smoking jacket type, with robes to match. Wine reds are a good choice. Bright blues come next in popularity. Black and white is ultra. Green and figured prints that bring out orange tones and even pinks are good.

CUT IN VARIOUS WAYS

Lounging robes may be double-breasted or single. They may be tricky, like military coats, or they may be just neatly tailored with plenty of room and many pockets, belting or tying with a cord.

The smoking pajama suits often go tuxy in a Russian manner, buttoning up one side to a high collar. New ones feature fancy round-lapel, smart belts and jaunty double-breasted effects. Trousers for the most part are merely comfortable, not decorated.

Every man needs a couple of lounging things, just as much as his wife does. A good combination is the smoking pajama suit and the beach or pullman robe. Then, whether he stays or goes, he is comfortable lounging, and more than that, he looks well and will know it every time his eye meets a mirror.

A man lounge smartly this spring. Left: Bright blue brocade silk, with a light tan design, makes a luxurious double-breasted lounging robe, with wide bell fringed at the ends. Right: Up-to-the-minute is the new lounging ensemble, especially when it is black and white satin. This one has a smart rounded collar, cuffs, pocket trim and belt of the white satin. The robe over the arm is all black.

STICK TO THE ISSUE
The campaign being waged for adoption of the city manager form of government is resulting in many revelations, none more interesting than the ease with which the attention of voters can be distracted from vital issues to extraneous and immaterial gossip.

This trait of human nature is particularly important to professional politicians who leave no stone unturned to exploit it. This is true especially of those politicians aligned with a cause that will not stand the strain of an open campaign on its merits.

A great deal of gossip and loose talk having no relation to the merits of either city manager or aldermanic government already has been injected into this campaign by supporters of the aldermanic system, hoping thereby to cause voters to forget their just complaints against the present government.

The difficulty of combatting this insidious propaganda is in tracing it to its source and exposing the originator, who usually keeps himself well concealed behind a wall of deceit. Even politicians have too much pride to admit the authorship of the kind of gossip and misrepresentation they inject into a campaign.

Voters, wise to their own interests, however, will take these wild tales circulated about the city with more than a grain of salt. They will recognize them as the part of the badly-hatched campaign and will keep their eyes focused straight ahead on the real issue of this campaign, and the issue is the relative merits of city manager and aldermanic government. It is only by sticking close to this issue that the people of Appleton can hope for an honest and unbiased choice at the election on April 1.

THE LEAGUE AND AMERICA

The council of the League of Nations has been wrestling with some knotty problems for several weeks, with little progress. One of the chief reasons for the failure is attributed by Lord Cecil of Great Britain to the council's tendency to consider always what America's attitude may be on any specific matter. He says: "For the League to refrain from taking a course otherwise desirable because it is thought it might be unpopular on the other side of the Atlantic is not only undignified but foolish. Conveying the impression that the League is dependent on American approval is as likely to discourage as to encourage American support. The only sound policy for the League is to go on with its work as well as it can without looking over its shoulder to see what is thought about it across the Atlantic." The British statesman is entirely correct. Any signs of helplessness, timidity and indecision on the part of the League intensify whatever American distrust of it exists. Yet it is possible to sympathize with those League jurists. Whether anyone wishes it or not, the American attitude is bound to play an important role in all the matters the council has been discussing. Because of the wealth and power and resources of this country, its approval is tremendously important, its disapproval almost fatal to any of the League's actions. It is an unwholesome situation from our own viewpoint. So much potential power is dangerous to its possessor, as well as to others, particularly when there is so little proof that we are absolutely competent to wield that power wisely and unselfishly in all matters.

U. S. AGAIN STANDS ALONE
Secretary of State Stimson and his colleagues are reported to have definitely rejected all of the French security proposals as a condition of reduction of the heavy French naval building program. There is, of course, the contingency that France will not go through with this program, but it is generally believed that it makes it impossible for the London conference to evolve a program that would realize actual reduction of armament. There is the possibility of a three or four power agreement, leaving France out, but it would undoubtedly be encumbered with provisions permitting Great Britain to expand its fleet in case France went ahead with the construction she has planned.

It is to be assumed that Mr. Stimson's action had the approval of President Hoover. It discards, it is said, even an agreement to consult with the signatories to the treaty in case of threatened war or aggression. The United States if that is the case is still living in the past. It is carrying the shibboleth of entangling alliances to extremes irreconcilable with the world of today and its opportunities and obligations for fortifying international peace.

All of the conditions which existed when the United States embarked upon its policy of complete political isolation have changed, together with the reasons for the adoption of this extreme policy. Instead of being a new, weak, struggling country, we have grown to be the most powerful nation on the face of the earth. All possibilities of foreign conquest on the two American continents have been definitely removed. We are more than able to stand on our own bottom in the great family of nations. Contrary to our professed policy of isolation we are already involved in treaties, security pacts and economic relations with other countries of a varied, intimate and important character. Isolation has become a fiction as well as an impossibility.

The tendency during the last generation has been altogether on the side of more liberal relations with the rest of the world. The movement is constantly growing and it is founded on sound political and economic doctrines. We venture the prediction that if the United States stands aloof in this conference and refuses consultative action for the prevention of war it will within 10 years take a different position if the same issue presents itself at some future conference on disarmament. The exigencies of peace are greater than the excuses for war and we can more than afford to throw our influence and power on the side of peace and instrumentalities for delivering the world from excessive armaments and causes of war. We are not going to be forever bound to a policy which interprets the United States as an entity entirely apart from other nations, and which determines its foreign relations as if they did not exist.

MR. HOOVER'S OPPORTUNITY

The death of Mr. Justice Sanford, which occurred on the same day as the death of Mr. Taft, creates another vacancy in the supreme court of the United States. A weighty responsibility falls upon President Hoover in filling this vacancy. Recent events in the senate make it evident that whatever appointment is made will be scrutinized with the greatest care. It would be a fine thing if a man of the type and leanings of Justices Holmes and Brandeis should be selected by Mr. Hoover. Justice Holmes in particular has made some great judicial history by his dissenting opinions and there are those who regard him as the foremost living American. Without a doubt certain of his dissenting opinions represent sounder conclusions of public policy than the majority decision and constitute an interpretation of the constitution eminently desirable in this day and age.

The country does not want another ultra-conservative judge or corporate lawyer appointed to this bench and should Mr. Hoover make the mistake of such a choice it will undoubtedly meet with vigorous opposition in the senate. The court as a whole is in need of being modernized and this is an opportunity to move in that direction. One would expect from a man of Mr. Hoover's temperament and experience a search for a truly liberal and progressive jurist to fill the present vacancy. It is an era which merits on this great tribunal members not engrossed in legalistic formulas and having excessive regard for precedents, but possessed rather of a liberal, enlightened, human philosophy.

The Post-Mortem
H O-HUM, and what a great democracy we live in. And justice, such justice! The other day one of Chicago's outstanding gangsters returned to attend the funeral of a slain racketeer. He chatted with the police, told of his fortune, and went unmolested on his way. Now we see where a negro in Kentucky has been sentenced to life imprisonment, under the habitual criminal act, for stealing chickens. The eyes of justice aren't only blindfolded, they're crossed.

Ramblin Red Pauses to Dream
Dear Jonah:
It's that time of the year when one digs deep into the closet and finds the old shirt that never knew a necktie, those old boots so carefully oiled and laid aside and those old corduroys that have given such good mileage. It's about time, too, for the old flivver top to come down and stay down except for an occasional cloudburst.
Yeah! It's that time all right, that time when one starts to think of the roads, the rivers, the mountains, the deserts—all of those places that seem so great and are twice as wonderful as the picture.
Yeah! It's the time to think, all right, but . . . that's all—just think.
Thinking . . . well, Red, that's all a lot of us can afford to do, isn't it?

Today's Anniversary
REPEAL OF THE STAMP ACT
On March 14, 1776, Parliament repealed the Stamp Act which it imposed on the colonies less than a year before as a means of raising taxes. The colonists were required under the act to use stamps, costing anywhere from a penny to $50, on all pamphlets and newspapers.
The legislation met with disfavor both in the colonies and in England. It gave rise to Patrick Henry's famous speech and caused James Otis to declare in Boston, "Taxation without representation is tyranny." It aroused even the school boys to shout, "Liberty, property and no stamps."
Soon after delegates from the nine colonies met in New York to protest against the act. Parliament, reconsidered the act. William Pitt said before the House of Lords: "In my opinion, this kingdom has no right to lay a tax on the colonies . . . I rejoice that America has resisted."
The act was repealed soon thereafter.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF TABLE ETIQUETTE
Etiquette is the code of rules prescribed by authority to govern the conduct of persons of good breeding. Who is an "authority"? In the past there have been too many individuals of doubtful breeding posing as authorities and thereby imposing their own rules on followers who accepted them as authorities. Today this artificial and really ridiculous kind of etiquette is passe. If you wish you may carve your lettuce with your knife now. There is a very good reason for this, too. Thirty years ago you just looked at the lettuce and then at the fork and you pretended you didn't care for lettuce. Today you need the vitamins, so you cut the lettuce with your knife and you have it served over on the right where you can get at it conveniently.
Any rule of etiquette that does not conform with good hygiene is simply not valid in modern life. No "authority" is good enough to impose upon intelligent people a rule of etiquette that involves any sacrifice of health or one that is likely to be an obstacle in the way of health. Some ministers and undertakers in Iowa actually published a paid advertisement recently, urging that men cease baring their heads during ceremonies in the cemetery in cold weather. You see the ministers and undertakers, imagining that the doffing of the hat involved some risk to health, did not hesitate to butt their heads against even that tradition. Of course no risk is involved, but these brave lads believed differently and had the courage to say so in the paid announcement in the local paper.
Here are some rules of table etiquette which are especially commendable to parents:
1.—No one may come to table without first washing his hands, so he can handle his own food.
2.—No one shall pay attention to or make any remark about table manners at table. A child forms table manners by example, not by precept.
3.—Having provided proper food, the parent's duty is done. In no case should there be any coaxing, urging or discussion concerning the child's disposal of the food, either at table or at any other time in the child's presence.
4.—A child must remain a definite time at table say 20 minutes, never less in any circumstance. If the child prefers not to eat, very well, no comment or criticism is permissible, but the 20 minute rule is inflexible. That's all.
5.—It is unwise, unnecessary and sometimes actually harmful to a child's health to insist that the child drink an arbitrary quantity of milk at any meal or in the day. If the child dislikes milk he should not be compelled to drink it.
6.—All food should be served at table without one word being said about the food. Table talk where children are present must be about pleasant subjects other than food. Of course there is no prohibition against a spontaneous "This is great, mother, may I please have some more."
And this reminds me of the story about the ranch biscuits—but call yourselves, I'm not going to tell it any more, but it was a grand old story in its day and it illustrates perfectly the attitude that parents and children should maintain toward the victuals at table, especially where children have poor appetite.

The Tynmites
By Hal Cochran
COURSE Clowny had a heap of fun. He'd bathed a while and then he'd run along the beach. The sand was soft and felt good on his feet. All of a sudden he sat down and in the sand he worked around until he'd drawn a figure of a horse that looked real neat.
"Hey, look!" he shouted to the rest. "Will you all come to your best and still not make a thing as good as this horse I have drawn." The others eyed it for a spell and Scouty said, "Geel! That is swell." Then Clowny messed the sand up and the little horse was gone.
Back to the water they all ran much to the pleasure of the man who'd let them take the bathing suits. He quite enjoyed their fun. Just watching them brought forth a smile. Thought he, I guess that after while I'll let them go boat riding, when with swimming they are done.
The next thing that the old man knew the Tynmites were skimming through the water right in front of him at quite a rapid pace. Each one was shouting mighty loud. It surely was a happy crowd. Then when they came ashore he found that they had had a race.
"I won the race," we Scouty said. "I won 'cause I came out ahead." The man said, "Fine! And now I have another plan for you. I have a fine canoe nearby that I thought you would like to try." And shortly all the bunch were riding in the man's canoe.
They each took turns at paddling 'round and everything seemed safe and sound. Then foolish Clowny stood up and the next thing that they knew they all flopped out with quite a splash. The boat tipped over with a crash. It's always very foolish to stand up in a canoe.
(The Tynmites meet the Travel Man in the next story.)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Dad Needs Silencer
Please confer a favor on a tired old dad who is ostracized by his family because he snores. Tell me some remedy or relief. (W. C. W.)
Answer—The old man does become a great nuisance to the rest of the family in some cases, and if it were not for payday they'd give him the air, all right. Here are some things to do: Walk six miles every day or every evening, or get other outdoor exercise equivalent. Don't eat, drink or smoke excessively. Sleep on porch, or with windows open, but never bed down. Get up in a minute. Light a cigar, or a pipe, or a cigarette, or a cigarette, or a cigarette. Try to sleep peacefully, brought back.
American soldiers took the potato bug to France, says an agricultural journal. But that isn't anything new in a combat. Light a cigar, or a pipe, or a cigarette, or a cigarette, or a cigarette. Try to sleep peacefully, brought back.

MOVING PICTURE INTELLIGENCE
Editor, Appleton-Crescent: If movie audiences are a fair cross-section of the intelligence of the American people we have little to be proud of. We like to make fun of the British; their lack of a sense of humor has been the butt of American jesters for years.
But is it not a fact that we, with what we think is a superior sense of humor, can explode that theory any day we attend the theatre? Loud guffaws at the wrong time—delicate bits ruined for the rest of us, because some hick thinks that formal dress, with a top hat is humorous—a letter is dropped by the heroine and the nit-wits in the audience whoop it up—the hero tosses his hat toward the table and when it falls short it is interpreted as a custard pie act.
In "Seven Days Leave," the returned soldier tosses his clothes through the curtained doorway, followed by his shoes, as he prepares for his long-delayed bath. Whoops greet this detail—something is being thrown. Is our American sense of humor worth mentioning if it aroused only when something is being thrown, or when anyone slips on a banana peel or when some actor is hit on the head or in the rear?
The time will come when movies will be presented in different houses according to the graded intelligence of the audiences to whom they intend to cater. Not everybody likes the same restaurant—the presentation and preparation of food must suit the class to whom they make their appeal. Stores differ in their presentation and in their merchandise. But in our entertainment at the movies we have to stand for the puffaws of the no-no, who, in a restaurant, would be inhaling his coffee out of his saucer.
Maybe the fault lies with the party making up the program. Too often we go to a high type feature picture—"Disraeli" for instance—and have to suffer through a cheap comedy that has no place in such company. There must be such a thing as a high type comedy, to match with a high type feature.
Let me make a prediction. The time will come when the powers that be in the movie business will present balanced programs—Fine feature pictures with equally fine exhibits in lighter vein. Those whose hobby is news-reels can have an entire program of such. Those who love in slapstick may have nothing else but. Theatres will be known for their own style and character of programs—the public will attend those where they are best pleased.
Fun and Fanny.

Now that a cow has been milked while riding in an airplane over St. Louis, we suppose a rogue will be started in that city for plane milk shakes.
You never can tell. The woman who picked up Cal Coolidge's half-smoked cigar may have been only collecting cigar lands.
You never can tell. The boy who saves old magazines may grow up to be a dentist some day.
Cal Coolidge will at last attend a wet celebration. Yep, he's going to dedicate the Coolidge dam at Arizona.
The country's prohibition argument, while all wet on one side and extremely dry on the other is still more or less interesting.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON
BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington — Alice Roosevelt's old footman is tucked away in a corner of the state department at Washington acting as personal messenger to Francis White, assistant secretary.
Charlie Reeder in those days had the reputation of being the "fastest footman in town." He was a White House servant for 13 years, and in that time saw the limousine replace the carriage as the President's vehicle of travel.
The elderly negro, now stout and jovial, likes nothing better than to talk of the days when he served at the executive mansion. Numerous are his stories in which Princess Alice and her husband were the principals.
LONG TERM
Charlie's service at the White House was under three administrations. McKinley took him there to act as bell boy. Roosevelt kept him as footman and guardian of his children. Taft held him for one year, after which, at Charlie's request, he found a place for him in the department. He has been there since—20 years in all.
It was while keeping a watchful eye over the Roosevelt children that the faithful old negro found most pleasure in his job. He taught them all to ride a pony and later a bicycle. Alice, Teddy, Jr., Archie, Quentin, Kermit and Ethel—all found in Charlie a devoted friend and servant willing to risk the displeasure of T. R. himself that they might be pleased.
There was the time, for instance, when Archie had the measles. Every day Charlie would slip upstairs to his room and report to the boy how his most prized possession—a pony—was faring. One day Archie said that he must see his pony—wouldn't Charlie make it possible? Charlie said he would think it over.
Next day while the family was at lunch, he slipped over to the White House stables. He went to the stall occupied by Archie's pony and bridled the animal. To the White House he led him. Stealthily he smuggled the pony into the mansion's elevator and up to Archie's room.

THUNDER IN THE AIR
Archie was in bed when Charlie led the pony in, but when he saw his pet he let out a whoop and dived for him. The little pony was completely upset and fell to the floor with a resounding thud that brought the family rushing pell-mell upstairs.
Of course, Charlie came in for a reprimand. But later T. R. told him: "No one but you, Reeder, would have thought of doing that for the boy."
It was Charlie who officiated at the burial of Black Jack, the children's pet dog. And he can point out now the magnolia tree on the White House grounds where the Roosevelt pet lies buried.

"FAT" UMBRELLAS BECOME POPULAR

Newest Fad Proves Both Quaint and Practical in Paris

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright 1936, by Cons. Press
New York.—(CPA)—Fat little umbrellas with fat little handles manage to be both practical and quaint on a rainy Paris day. Velourne has some with modernistic handles, others with handles vaguely resembling a duck's head, and others with just stubby handles interesting in an archaic sort of way. You make no pretence of folding these umbrellas smoothly; you just wrap 'em around the stubby ferule and fasten them with a snap when the sun peeps out.

A little-finger ring to match the necklace is a happy thought of the moment. Often the settings are marcasite and silver, the stones semi-precious or near semi-precious. Among the favorite stones are rose quartz, carnelian, amethyst, chalcodony, lapis lazuli and onyx.

It seems that back in the 1830's the swain went mad over the scent of his lady's hair, which smelled of nothing more complicated than rose water, violets, lavender or garden lilies. To make the swain of 1936 mad, the womanly woman uses flower perfumes. These may be simple flower scents, or a whole bouquet of them, but the idea appears to be that eventually they lead to a strong odor of orange blossoms; spring being a sentimental season at best.

Diabetes And Kidneys Often Cause Of Boils

Madison — It's only a boil." That single remark, so often in heedless disregard to the health of the person making it. "Boils" are often the forerunners of "carbuncles" which have a distinct mortality list.

"The idea that boils are the result of bad blood is an evanescent conception," declares the education committee of the state medical society in its weekly bulletin issued today. "Not infrequently boils are caused by diabetes or kidney trouble."

"One of the most common diseases of the skin, and one which most of us have experienced at some time, is the furuncle, or, as it is commonly called, the 'boil.' The furuncle, or boil, is a localized inflammation of the skin, due to an infection by a type of bacteria known as the staphylococcus. This infection begins in a hair follicle, at the base of a hair, or in one of the oil glands of the skin. It may occur any place on the body, and frequently appears on exposed surfaces. Those individuals, who have coarse, oily skins, or 'black heads,' are most susceptible."

"One of the first symptoms of a furuncle is a pricking sensation, and upon close observation a small pimple is seen. This pimple increases rapidly in size until there is a large reddened, tender area, which gradually localizes, becomes a dusky blue in color, and a yellowish, raised center appears which we call the core. This yellowish area soon softens, and pus comes out. The disease is usually localized. However, this may not always be the case, and many similar boils may appear in the vicinity of the first one. This may be the result of two important existing conditions. First, by improper care, and lack of attention, the surrounding skin becomes soiled from the secretion of the boil, causing new boils to appear, where the skin has been irritated by improper handages. This may continue over a long period of time, and the individual may have many resultant boils. Second, the individual may have repeated boils because of lowered resistance to infection, which not infrequently is caused by diabetes or kidney disease. The idea held by many people, that so-called bad blood is the cause of repeated crops of boils, is erroneous. The blood stream is not invaded by the bacteria, causing these infections only in very exceptional cases.

"In view of the fact that certain serious diseases predispose to boils, it is especially important that the individual afflicted should consult his physician, to determine if any such condition exists of which the 'boils' are only symptoms. If not such disease is discovered, the physician can give valuable information concerning the proper care and treatment of the 'boils' which will shorten the course of the infection, render it less painful, and prevent its further recurrence."

New York.—If a plane is all right, it is a pretty good thing to stick to it, instead of parachuting, in the opinion of Clarence Chamberlin, who showed that a stalled machine could come to earth more slowly than a parachute dropped from it. ALICE BRADY STILL LACKS RIGHT-VEHICLE

BY RICHARD LOCKRIDGE
New York.—(CPA)—The season's third installment of hat serial which might well be called "The Plight of Alice Brady" was revealed Wednesday night at the Eltinge theatre with the presentation of "Love, Honor and Betray," an extraordinarily stuffy satire from the French.

Miss Brady, gasping perceptibly in an atmosphere all too heavy with physiology, did what she could. Now and then, when a little crack of irony opened, she got a breath of air, but her evening could not, all in all, have been much more satisfactory than that passed by the rest of us.

After her earlier difficulties this season with "Karl and Anna" and "The Game of Love and Death," Miss Brady deserved better than to be set down thus in the stifling atmosphere of schoolboy cynicism, which is the principle attribute of "Love, Honor and Betray."

It is a play which relies almost entirely on the bizarre notion of permitting three men who had failed in their efforts to cope with one woman to rise from their graves and discuss their failures. In the graveyard they hup up one by one and sit down on the edges of their tombs—the boy who shot himself when he learned that his love was mercenary, the husband who died of apoplexy when he discovered that his wife was not a queen to leave him after all, the lover who paid the penalty of his amorous adequacy.

End War By Education, Women Hear

FAITH in the power of true education, that is, seeking the truth and using it, to devise ways and means of attaining world peace, and faith in the power of Christianity to do away with war, was the solution to the problem of world peace given by Dr. Irving Maurer, president of Beloit college, in his talk on the American Citizen and World Peace at the Public Relations banquet given by Appleton Business and Professional Women's club Thursday night in the Crystal room of Conway Hotel.

Dr. Maurer discussed the situation of various countries in their relation to the United States at the present time and showed that whether or she joins the world court or the league of nations, America is a world power. The doctrine of isolation, he stated, is preached by those who have not the moral strength to face the logic of the present position and see that since 1914 America has definitely turned her back on such a policy. America may have made mistakes, the speaker said, but he expressed the opinion that her faith in what she believes to be the true American spirit, if she remains faithful to it, will eventually lead the world into peace.

In speaking of America's assets, Dr. Maurer stressed justice, youthfulness, and hope in the future. Instead of the present or the past, he expressed the opinion that the thought of God, as a child of social experience, would be an instrument in solving world peace, in that the idea of God as Love and God as Father brings with it the thought of all men as brothers. Social righteousness in each individual corner of the world, the speaker said, would eventually rid the world of war.

In conclusion, Dr. Maurer said that the fault of the world lies the fact that men who know what to do are afraid to do it. The college, he said, has the task of turning out men who are honest enough to find the truth and brave enough to use it.

Interesting Menus

BY SISTER MARY

NEA Service Writer

Although the food value and mineral and vitamin content of foods is of first consideration in planning menus, the color of the various foods served enters into the general scheme of things.

Try visualizing your menus as you read them over. Foods of contrasting color usually combine excellently, since the color contrast helps contrast also in flavor and texture.

If you see the menu in your mind's eye as you plan it in serving it, in this day of colored linens and glasses, the family luncheon or breakfast table can be made a veritable picture. You, yourself, may be the only one at the table who fully appreciates the color effect, but every member will enjoy his meal more than usual.

The following luncheon menu is for a simple family meal, but it is colorful and offers opportunity for experiment:

Cream of spinach soup, hot cheese sandwiches, jelly tomato salad, peach islands, tea, milk.

Peach Islands

One pint canned peaches, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1 orange, 1 cup whipping cream, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Drain peaches from syrup in can. Add enough water to syrup to make one cup. Add sugar to syrup and bring to the boiling point. Stir in gelatin softened in cold water and remove from fire. When cold add slices of orange. Reserve about four tablespoons of this mixture, keeping it warm over hot water until needed. When remaining gelatin begins to thicken, beat with a dower beater until frothy. Whip cream until firm, add vanilla and beat into gelatin froth. Pour into a shallow serving dish and dot with halves of peaches. Pour reserved syrup over each peach and put in a cold place to chill.

WEDDINGS

Miss Dora Radtke, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Norman Hopfensperger, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. The home was decorated in ferns and spring flowers. After a trip through Florida, Mrs. and Mrs. Hopfensperger will make their home at 903 N. Bennett-st. Mr. Hopfensperger is manager of the Neenah market of Hopfensperger Bros., Inc.

DEATH SAVES CONVICT FROM RETURN TO PRISON

Brawley, Cal.—(AP)—Death has saved Walter Sinclair, 42, alias Joe McFarland, escaped convict, from being returned to the Ohio State penitentiary at Columbus.

Sinclair, arrested here yesterday upon information received from Ohio officers, was shot and killed by Police Officer Robert Cordill, as he made a dash for freedom from the Brawley city jail.

Mrs. Tilla Mason, mother of Sinclair, with whom he had been living here for several months, admitted her son had been convicted of automobile theft in Ohio and had escaped from prison. She said he also had served a term in the Oregon State prison in connection with a murder.

As Cordill opened a cell door Sinclair dashed into the street. Cordill opened fire as the fleeing prisoner swung on to the side of a passing automobile. Two bullets struck the man, and he died almost instantly.

CALCUTTA MAYOR IS TAKEN TO RANGOON

Calcutta, India.—(AP)—J. M. Sengupta, mayor of Calcutta who is under arrest on a charge of sedition, left his home in a motor car procession today for the docks where he embarked on the steamer Sirdhana for Rangoon. He must answer the government's charges there.

He was garlanded profusely, and his forehead was painted with vermilion marks on the occasion of today's Hindu festival. In his parting message to his people Mayor Sengupta advised:

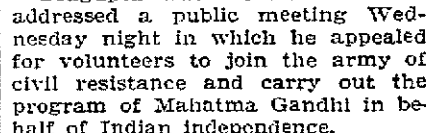

"Dissolve the present Bengal Indian national congress executive, from one with members who believe in the leadership of Gandhi, and don't let the fair name of Bengal be sullied."

Calcutta Mayor Is Taken To Rangoon

Sengupta was arrested after he addressed a public meeting Wednesday night in which he appealed for volunteers to join the army of civil resistance and carry out the program of Mahatma Gandhi in behalf of Indian independence.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

DON'T get excited and think you're ahead of the game," one of the men told her. "I know where you're going, all right. No one knew this kid in the other room was going to marry the Becker heir until that young Thornton told the Lester girl that morning at the farm house. That means they think they've got us. Well, how could we know that the thing hadn't been announced yet?"

"I told you to wait till you knew."

"Yeah? There you go, saying I told you so. Snap out of it, sister, and lend us your brains. Your head's just as liable to separate from your neck as ours, if we're caught."

"Sh-h! The girl'll hear," someone cautioned.

"Let her! What do we care? We're about through with her, anyway. Can't do no harm now."

"They've got their lamps on us," the man who seemed to do most of the talking, continued. "But we've got those bulls sewed up all right. They're foolin' around that farm house and the old man and woman are sticking close to it. Nobody knows anything about us or our hang-out. They don't even know the old pair have a son and I'm the man."

Now Sue knew why one of the strangers, masked though he was, had recalled the farm house man.

"While those babies are busy protecting the house—and they can't make a move without being seen, either—we'll do our dirty work and beat it. All O. K.?"

"Sure thing," the woman approved. "Well, suppose we move along then."

She picked up the paper again. No one was to come within a half-mile of the designated place or the kidnappers would not appear. The trio would probably leave early in the afternoon to arrive in time, she reflected. In the meantime, how much longer would she have to live? The panel swung open and she turned to see the woman called Rose standing there, the mask gone now.

She put her finger on her lips "Sh-h! Don't say a word."

CHILDREN'S APPETITES ARE FICKLE

Often Due to Tasteless or Uninviting Diet

Mothers are often confronted by the problem of getting their children to eat what is good for them. When they notice that this objection to wholesome foods results in underweight and lowered vitality, they are naturally much disturbed.

The lack of taste-appeal of the food served is often the cause of poor appetites. The cereal may be tasteless; the fruit juice or stewed fruit too sharp; the vegetables uninviting in flavor.

By adding a dash of sugar to these foods, they will be much improved in flavor. Doctors and dietitians approve this use of sugar, because it makes those foods which are rich in vitamins, minerals and roughage more enjoyable to the child.

A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a popular way to season string beans, spinach, carrots, cabbage, peas and other vegetables as they cook. And raw vegetables used in salads are much more palatable when served with a French dressing in which such a combination of sugar and salt is used. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute

MAYOR SEES NEED FOR APPOINTMENT OF AN INSPECTOR

Held Says City Needs Man to Supervise Plumbing Installations

Menasha—Establishment of the office of plumbing inspector in Menasha, recently recommended to the common council by the state board of health, has the support of Mayor W. E. Held, he indicated Friday. The proposal has been referred to the water and light commission, which may submit a report at the council meeting next Tuesday night.

"With an expansion in the building program in sight, the city should have officials of this nature to supervise construction," Mayor Held said. "Now is the time to insure residence builders that the plumbing is correct. No action is taken on this matter, the city really will be performing an injustice to many of its residents who later may find it necessary to alter their plumbing systems."

Paving activities in Menasha this year probably will be limited to a minimum, according to Mayor Held. Although the paving program has not yet been adopted by the council, it is not likely that more than a few blocks will be improved. Appointments between First and Second streets will most likely be paved; other paving projects will depend upon the sentiment of property holders.

Several large sewer projects may be undertaken next spring, although this program also remains to be fixed by the council. Sewers probably will be laid on Seventeenth between Racine and Milwaukee streets and on Water-st from Mill-st to the St. Paul drawbridge, according to present plans. These are the largest projects under consideration.

RADIO CONTROVERSY WON'T BE REVIEWED BY SUPREME COURT

Highest Body Refuses to Consider Appeal by New York City

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1930 by Cons. Press
Washington—Radio's second attempt to have the nation's highest tribunal pass upon the constitutionality of the laws governing it falls flat, with the refusal of the supreme court to review New York City's own radio scrap.

The court merely exercised its prerogative of declining to hear any arguments on the petition of the City of New York, operating station WNYC, for a review of the decision of the court of appeals, here, which denied the station full time operation. Thus, like its predecessor, the celebrated WGY case, it was thrown out of the highest court, and the all-important questions of the constitutionality of the radio act, and of property rights of stations remain as yet unresolved.

Since November, 1928, when the federal radio commission juggled the assignments of practically all of the 600 broadcasting stations, New York City has been fussing about the assignment of its municipal station.

DIVIDE TIME
Under this reallocation, it was reduced from full-time to one-half time on the 570 kilocycle channel, the other half having been given to station WMCA, also in New York, but a commercial station. Both use 500 watts power.

In the court of appeals, New York city contended it had a property right to operate WNYC full time and that the commission lacked authority to prohibit it from full time operation because it is a municipal station and its operation is that of a municipal corporation. Both of these contentions were not sustained by the court, which affirmed the commission's refusal to give the station full time.

In petitioning the supreme court for review last January, it was argued on behalf of WNYC that congress has no power to regulate broadcasting under the constitution. It stated in its brief that the interstate commerce act specified that congress should control transmission of commercial messages or intelligence by wireless, and that nothing in the law pertains to broadcasting. But in denying the petition for review, the supreme court, in effect sustained the judgment both of the commission and the lower court. Thus the fight of WNYC to oust WMCA from the 570-kilocycle channel reaches the wind-up.

RADIO CONTROVERSY
The supreme court, however, will pass upon these basic questions in radio law within the next few months. Five questions, designed to settle once and for all the controversies that have cropped up as to the rights of broadcasters and other licensed users of the ether, have been certified to the court by the circuit court of appeals at Chicago. The court must pass upon these questions, which are broader than those raised either in the WGY case—the first to reach the supreme court—or the WNYC case. These questions are certified in the case of station WCRM, at Chicago, operated by Canton R. White, against the commission attacking the constitutionality of the act as a violation of the fifth amendment, which prohibits the taking of property without compensation and due process of law.

Hansen Wins Two Year Fight For U. S. Help

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—After working for two years or more to get compensation for the disabilities suffered by Waldemar C. Hansen, 1309 South Jackson Street, Appleton, World War veteran, Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton has at last succeeded.

The division of appeals of the Veterans' Bureau has decided that Hansen's serious foot condition was in part caused and further aggravated by his World War service, and he has been told to appear before the regional office at Milwaukee for examination and rating to determine how much his compensation is to be.

WENT TO HOSPITAL
Hansen suffered slightly from flat feet when he went into the service, but not badly enough to keep him from being admitted the Army and sent to France. He was all right after his training and drilling in this country, and was for a time able to do all that was required of him in France. Later, however, he was sent to the hospital, and numerous hospital reports show that the foot condition was aggravated in line of duty.

When Representative Schneider first took Hansen's case up with the Veterans' Bureau, the regional office held that his condition had no connection with his service. An appeal was taken to the Chicago office, which upheld the Milwaukee decision. The congressman then appealed three times to the advisory group, and placed the matter personally before Director Frank Hines on two occasions.

TROUBLE INCREASED
Last December Representative Schneider asked the division of appeals, successor to the advisory group, to reconsider the case, and placed before it again the hospital reports obtained from the adjutant general's office, calling attention to the records there showing that his service had at least increased Hansen's troubles.

The division has held that the trouble with one foot was caused by the army service, and that the trouble with the other was aggravated by his service.

Hansen was a salesman in a store and was unable to continue this work on account of the condition of his feet.

Editor Names Ten More Winners of Prizes In Post-Crescent's Contest

Well, boys and girls of the rural schools, here are 10 more prize winners in the Post-Crescent's On to Washington contest.

Are you one of the lucky ones? If not please remember, that there are still many weeks left between now and next June when you will go to Washington and the Post-Crescent will award prizes every week. There is no limit to the number of prizes you may win. It may be one or it may be a dozen depending upon your ingenuity and cleverness in thinking of ways to earn money to go to Washington, next June.

The contest editor says that he has received scores of letters with the same suggestions. The predominating similarity of the ideas leads him to believe the boys and girls are not thinking hard enough but are sending in the first idea that comes to mind.

At least 100 pupils have suggested hot beds to raise vegetables and flowers and about the same number have suggested a school carnival with a card party, or various booths. There have been so many of these suggestions that the contest editor decided he could not award a prize to anyone of the students submitting it.

The rules of this contest are very simple. Ideas for earning money must be clever and original and every prize winner will receive 50 cents.

Following is this week's list:

Margaret Thompson, route 4, Clintonville, wins a prize with the suggestion that pupils save old coins and sell them at a good price. She is doing it and finds the plan successful.

Nellie Thorson, of the Island school, route 2, Neenah, is an ambitious girl and her idea for earning money is an excellent one. She, with the help of her classmates, will publish a school paper and sell it to all the families of the district. This plan could easily be tried by other schools.

Roy Colson, of the Sunset school, Shiocton, is earning his money by taking orders for fish and then supplying his customers by purchases made from a wholesale house. He finds a good demand for fish, especially during the Lenten season.

Harriet Marshall, of the public school at Kimberly, receives a prize for her idea. She is embroidering dish towels and selling them to her neighbors.

Margaret Eisch, route 2, Appleton, wins a prize with her suggestion of making origami paper dolls and selling them. She attends the Triangle school, town of Grand Chute, and she finds she is successful in selling her product.

Dorothy Olsen, of the Countryside school, Shiocton, receives a prize for her suggestion that pupils get their parents to pay them a small sum for every mouse they catch in the granary. This might even be tried on nearby neighbors.

Phyllis Friess, route 1, Black Creek, is making hot dish pads and selling them for 75 cents a set.

Edwin Stern, Hortonville, suggests that each school insert a small advertisement in the local newspaper to read: "Work wanted after school and Saturday, by students who want to make the trip to Washington next June. Please notify—teacher or the school."

Dorothy Vanden Heuvel, Kimberly, wins a prize with her suggestions that schools in villages hold a "tag day" when the students can sell tags on which will be printed "Help Graduates on Commencement Trip."

Helen Boettcher, of the Elmdale school, route 6, Appleton, wins a prize for her suggestion. The prize is not only given for the suggestion but also because Miss Boettcher has shown she has carefully studied her idea. She will purchase 6,000 onion plants for $4.25 and the express will cost $1.35. These onions will be set out and $2.50 worth of fertilizer will be used to help them grow. When they are about an inch in diameter, they will be taken out and put in bunches of six each. Cord for tying the bunches will cost 15 cents, bringing the total cost to $8.25. The bunches will then be sold for $33.30 and she will have a net profit of $25.05.

WOMANS CAR STOLEN FROM PARKING PLACE

A Ford sedan, 1925 model, owned by Mrs. Lee "a" 1706 S. Mason-st., was stolen from its parking place on the Midway about 8:15 Thursday night. The theft was reported to police who are looking for the machine. The car carried the 1930 license number B-7426.

Rhinoclauder—(P)—To find methods which will prevent a recurrence of last summer's disastrous forest fires, Wisconsin forest rangers met here today. Paul D. Keiler, director of conservation, and C. P. Harrington, superintendent of forests and parks, were in charge of the meeting.

ONE DAY LEFT FOR FILING INCOME REPORT

Saturday is the last day for citizens to file their state income tax reports.

Leo J. Toonen, assessor of incomes for Chascania and Waupaca, said Friday that every individual who does not file his report by Saturday will be penalized $5.

Reports which are in the mails and postmarked before midnight Saturday will be counted as being filed on time, Mr. Toonen said. The assessor's office will remain open Saturday afternoon, although it usually is closed at that time, to assist taxpayers in preparing their income reports.

Every single person with an income of $800 or more and every married person with an income of $1,600 or more, must file a report, Mr. Toonen said.

AUTOMOTIVE SECTION MEETS NEXT MONDAY

The newly organized automotive division of the chamber of commerce will hold a meeting in the chamber of offices at 7:30 Monday evening, according to Kenneth Corbett, chamber secretary. A tentative program will be outlined, and plans for strengthening the organization will be discussed.

Enrollment in Chicago high schools for the second semester increased more than 9,000.

Lauds Picture Industry As Asset To Society In U. S.

Washington—(P)—The motion picture industry was described today by Carl E. Milliken of New York, aide to Will Hays, as an agency working with the responsible elements of the nation "to help America set new traditions in social responsibility for the world and for future generations."

There is evidence on every side, the former governor of Maine told the better films committee of the eastern division of the Daughters of the American Revolution, that the quality of pictures under present policies of the industry is constantly improving. Furthermore, he said, the industry, aided by the counsel and support of responsible elements, is seeking far higher standards than the box office.

Milliken cited an increase in weekly attendance in motion picture theatres from 40,000,000 in 1922 to 115,000,000 today as the best endorsement of present day pictures.

"We are not a degraded or immoral people," he asserted, "despite the fact that looseness is louder than virtue, and such an indorsement from the American public could come only to an essentially wholesome product."

"The motion picture industry is proud to bear in mind, while it fulfills its necessary and self-justifying purpose of entertainment, the moral duty of assuring character-building qualities in that entertainment," Milliken added.

Calling attention to the privilege of the D. A. R., General Federation of Women's Clubs, Y. M. C. A., International Catholic Alumnae and other organizations to view pictures in Hollywood before their general distribution, he said one pioneer organization recently approved 517 out of the last 550 pictures seen; whereas ten years ago it recommended only half the pictures produced.

BALLARD, LAABS IN HOT RACE FOR TOWN CHAIRMAN

Both Get on Ticket at Record Breaking Grand Chute Caucus

That C. B. Ballard, well known in state and county political circles, will give A. W. Laabs a real race for the chairmanship of the town of Grand Chute was indicated at the annual town caucus in the town hall when both men were nominated for the office. They will go before the voters at the spring election on April 1.

With one of the largest crowds ever at a Grand Chute caucus, Mr. Laabs was nominated for office with 102 votes, a margin of five over Ballard who received 97 votes.

Ballard sought to make a speech before the vote on town chairmanship was taken "ut he was not given the floor until after the nominations were made. Then he attacked his opponent on the ground that county taxes are too high. Mr. Ballard definitely stated that he was opposed to building a new courthouse and that he would fight the proposal if he was put on the board.

Mr. Laabs announced that he would stand on the record of his accomplishments for the town. Every officer of Grand Chute will have opposition, with the interest probably centering about the chairmanship and town treasurer. Mrs. Anna Cummings is seeking that office in opposition to George Krickberg, who seeks reelection.

Candidates are: Supervisors, Henry Glasspan and Emmet O'Connor incumbents and John E. Guehl and Carl Staik, new candidates. Clerk, Fred Haisworth, incumbent and G. Gressler, new candidate. Assessor, Fred Diehl and Carl Plamann, both new candidates. Mr. Guehl, the present assessor, is not a candidate for the office. Constable, Herman Abitz and Martin Verhagen, incumbents and Bradford Deering a new candidate.

BEASTS LARGE AS OXEN BUT LOOKED LIKE FISH

Phoenix, Ariz. (P)—Scores of footprints of labyrinthodonts, some of them 11 inches long and nine wide, have been found in sandstone near the little Colorado river in northern Arizona.

These creatures became extinct at a period which scientists estimate at 100,000,000 years ago. The footprints were excavated by J. P. Hester, who reported to the Arizona museum that the tracks appeared to have been made by labyrinthodonts, which were huge, armored animals capable of living either on land or in the sea.

He believes that they lived when fresh-water fish were transforming into the first air-breathing creatures, and he reconstructs them as "bizarre beasts that bristled with bony armor, inherited from their fish forefathers."

He says they may have been the first animals on land to have lungs and voices.

"They were carnivorous," he says, "and walked on four five-toed feet, their hind feet being shaped somewhat like the human hand, and being much larger than the forefeet. They grew as large as oxen and fought for food the world over."

NOW 2 CITIES MAY GO INTO BATTLE ON "BIG FEET" ISSUE

Chicago (P)—The "big feet" dispute between Evanston and Oak Park may come to more than words.

Rivalry between the two suburbs, started when an Oak Park paper casually referred to "the big feet of Evanstonians," has resulted in a challenge to a bunfight derby.

The Oak Park Chamber of Commerce wrote to the Evanston chamber yesterday: "We challenge picked representatives of Evanston to a foot match and foot racing. Let impartial shoe merchants and chiropodists act as judges. If Evanston can find any citizens with less than size 12 pedal extremities we would be glad to receive a reply."

Walter Lovelace, to whom the challenge was addressed, placed it before the president of the Evanston body, but not without the comment that "such a contest would only serve to show that there are more 'heels' in Oak Park."

PLANT ODDITIES

Washington, D. C.—Strange plants added to the collection of the Smithsonian Institution here by Dr. Killip, have been brought from South America. One of the plants produces a poison which the natives sprinkle over a river. This poison kills fish within a large area and the natives gather them for food. Another plant produces strange dreams.

G'WAN HOME

He was one of those young men who never seem to know when to go. She had yawned several times, when a clock in the hall struck midnight.

"Is that an eight-day clock?" he asked.

"Well," said the girl, stifling another yawn, "why don't you stay a little longer and find out."—Tilt-bits.

STIMSON'S OLD SOAK VEXES HIS GUARDIANS

Washington (P)—A pedestal provided no place for the Old Soak.

The pet parrot of Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, the Old Soak was given into the keeping of the Pan American union when Mr. Stimson went to the London naval meeting.

He was given a prominent pedestal in the patio of the Pan American union, with bright-plumed but sober-minded mackaws for neighbors. There he sat quietly for a time, malevolently gazing around. Then surprised and boredom overcame him and he began to sputter "Hello, Old Soak!" "Hello, Old Soak!" punctuating each self-congratulation with a shriek that split the silence of the patio and cut into the air of busy adjacent offices.

Nothing could stop him: visitors only made him more self-assertive. Most of the personnel of the Pan American union building tried different plans to quiet him. One bird-loving worker even coaxed him into a cage and walked the floor with him.

But at last it was decided he would have to be reformed gradually. Now he is kept in a basement room in the daytime and at night the caretaker transfer him to his patio pedestal.

It is argued he gradually will become accustomed to his surroundings in that manner.

State Works To Decrease Grade Crossing Accidents

HARRY D. BLAKE
Grade Crossing Engineer
Wisconsin Highway Commission

The recent tragic accident at Kenosha, resulting from the driver of an automobile to beat an electric train to a grade crossing, has brought forcibly to the attention of the public, not only the potential danger inherent in all grade crossings, but also the necessity for care in the operation of motor vehicles in the vicinity of railroad tracks. In this particular accident, it appears that the driver was watching a freight train approaching from the left, that he ignored the wigwag warning signal, operating at the crossing and dashed squarely in front of a high speed passenger train which was traveling in the opposite direction. Both trains were derailed, 12 people killed, and over one hundred injured. Appalling accidents of this type bring forcibly home to every one the fact that something should be done to eliminate or to minimize the grade crossing hazard.

Statistics recently compiled by the Highway Commission, and based upon the investigation of individual accidents, indicate that in 1929, 1928 and the last half of 1927, 211 of 756 reported accidents were caused by motorists driving into the sides of trains—an average for the two and one-half years of 28 per cent. One road reports that 40 per cent of its accidents were of this type. As a result of a similar investigation, it appears that in 1929 and 1928, 293 of 538 accidents reported occurred on clear vision crossings, an average for the two years of 42 per cent. The New York Central recently published a report to the effect that 63 per cent of its accidents were at crossings where there was no obstruction to the view of approaching trains. By a further study of the same available information, it is shown that one-half of the total grade crossing accidents in 1929 and 1928 occurred at crossings equipped with some form of audible or visible warning signal. The remainder were at unprotected crossings. It appears from an examination of this data that there is a tremendous responsibility resting upon the operator of the motor vehicle.

What is the solution? What type of individual is the so-called "safe and sane" driver? Certainly the speed of automobile has some relation to the problem, but in this age of motor transportation it must be expected that they will be operated on the highways at high velocities. It is felt that there are few crossing accidents in which there is no element of negligence on the part of the driver of the automobile. This carelessness may be evidenced in a display of the spirit of bravado, an attempt to beat the train to the crossing, but probably more often in the form of inattention, preoccupation, or perhaps plain physical fatigue with thoughts on something other than the operation of the car or conditions upon the highway itself.

NEED ALERT DRIVERS
The modern automobile with its 30-100 horse power is a powerful machine and to operate it successfully requires keenness and alertness on the part of the driver. All railroad crossings are plainly marked as such with distinctive warning signs several hundred feet distant and many on the more heavily traveled highways are equipped with special protective devices. It is argued that the erection of stop signs at railroad crossings would produce a marked reduction in the number of accidents. No doubt they would help, but lacking provision for enforcement as is usually the case, would they stop the motorist who ignores the warning of the actual approach of a train, who dashes through gates and past the watchman holding a stop sign in the middle of the road, or more especially the large number who drive into the side of the train itself. It is somewhat problematical if their installation on rural highways would be entirely effective with present authorized police control. It is believed, however, that alertness to the danger indicated by the crossing signs and signals, with penalties for ignoring them, combined with authorized police enforcement, would result in a rapid reduction in the number of crossing accidents. There is an old railroad operating rule to the effect that trains entering a yard should be under control and ready to stop within vision. This is a good maxim for the motorist to use as a guide for safe driving.

The railroad companies are co-operating in the grade crossing work on the State Trunk Highway System, both in the construction of the separation projects toward the cost of which they have paid or agreed to pay about $700,000 in the last three years, and by the installation of automatic protection. The elimination of 50 or more crossings is planned for 1930 at an estimated increased expense of about $2,000,000. In conclusion, it is recommended:

1. That the motorist accept the railroad crossing signs and warning signals as indicative of real danger to him, and drive accordingly.
2. That effective protective signals be installed as rapidly as possible at all heavily traveled or especially dangerous crossings.
3. That the maximum number of existing grade crossings be closed and the minimum number of new ones opened.
4. That the maximum amount of motor traffic be diverted from the grade crossings by relocation of the highways.
5. That grades be separated as funds permit.
6. That railroad crossing signs and protective signals be placed in the same class as other motor traffic control devices, with authority to make them effective.

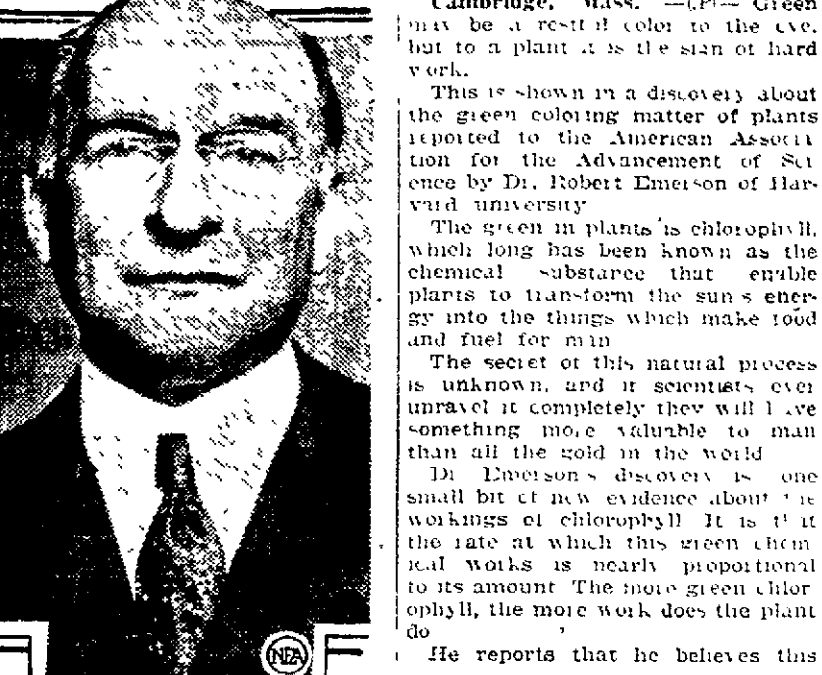

WILL BE POPULAR
Port Huron, Mich.—Youthful prisoners of the Michigan Reformatory at Ionia will be better off than some free persons. A new prison to be built for them will have apartments of five and six rooms, including a living room for each apartment. Formerly, in the old dormitory system, 20 to 40 prisoners bunked together.

The new home for Louisiana's governors will resemble the white house in Washington.

Has New Wet Plan

Federal and State commissions composed of "our best citizens" to regulate and control the sale of liquor—that was the plan advocated by Pierre S. du Pont, above, noted industrialist, in testifying before the House of Representatives Judiciary Committee in Washington. He opposed prohibition in its present form as "turning liquor traffic over to the criminal classes."

GREEN SEEN IN PLANTS IS EVIDENCE OF WORK

Cambridge, Mass. —(P)—Green may be a restful color to the eye, but to a plant it is the sign of hard work.

This is shown in a discovery about the green coloring matter of plants reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. Robert Emerson of Harvard university.

The green in plants is chlorophyll, which long has been known as the chemical substance that enables plants to transform the sun's energy into the things which make food and fuel for man.

The secret of this natural process is unknown, and it is scientists' ever-unravel it completely they will have something more valuable to man than all the gold in the world.

Dr. Emerson's discovery is one small but new evidence about the workings of chlorophyll. It is at the rate at which this green chemical works is nearly proportional to its amount. The more green chlorophyll, the more work does the plant do.

SAVES YEARS FOR CAR, DIES ON FIRST JAUNT
Asheville, N. C. —(P)—All his life Alexander Vallotton wanted to own an automobile.

Year after year the farmer saved his earnings, adding to the fund by doing odd jobs between seasons. When he was 47 he had enough saved and the day came.

Proudly he had the bright new sedan brought home to show his wife. With a youth hired to show him the tricks of driving, Vallotton started out on the highway. He met his first car and turned out too far. The car plunged over an embankment, overturned.

Vallotton was killed.

BILL BOARDS DEFACE ROMAN CHURCH WALLS

Rome —(P)—The billboard and poster nuisance is coming into its share of abuse in Rome.

Not content with plastering walls and fences with recommendations of their wares, a number of over-impetuous advertisers have been putting them up on the principal churches. Even St. Mary Major, one of the three basilicas which bulge with pilgrims, during the Pope's Jubilee Year, are supposed to visit in order to gain the attendant indulgences, has been placarded.

"When one goes to St. Mary Major," exclaims L'Avanti! a socialist organ of the black shirt-like organizations, "one goes to see one of the three principal shrines of Rome, not to learn which is the best tooth paste."

The first newspaper published south of the Potomac river in America, Gazette, has been revived in Williamsburg, Va.

a beautiful colored glass plate for cakes

with the purchase of two packages of Pillsbury's Cake Flour

This new cake flour has won a million women!

How good must a cake flour be to win a million users in its first year? It must be remarkably good—something outstanding. Pillsbury's Cake Flour is just that—women tell us they hadn't believed such an improvement in cakes was possible.

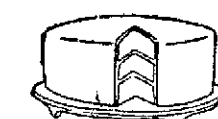

Baking tests show that Pillsbury's Cake Flour possesses three distinct superiorities: (1) It makes a cake that rises higher—a lighter, fluffier, more delicate cake. (2) It makes a cake with a softer, finer texture. (3) It makes a cake that stays moist and fresh longer.

Test Pillsbury's Cake Flour for yourself—no matter how experienced a cake maker you may be, we believe you'll get a new thrill. Try it with the most delicate, difficult recipes you know—before you've finished the first package you'll understand why a million women have adopted it as standard!

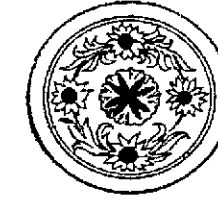

Here is an innovation—a cake serving plate really designed for cakes. It stands up from the table, on three little legs—you can slip your fingers under the edge, and carry your cake without touching the frosting. Also, it is perfectly flat on top—your cake cannot sag in the middle, as it sometimes does when placed on an ordinary curved plate. It is made of delicately colored glass, in a graceful, attractive design. The top carries a beautifully traced figure, worked out in light hues. It is extremely ornamental—and just as practical as it is good-looking. Your grocer will give you one free with the purchase of two packages of Pillsbury's Cake Flour.

STOCKS AGAIN MOVE UPWARD AS MONEY RATES ARE DROPPED

Oil Group Begins to Show Impressive Signs of Strength

BY STANLEY W. PRENSOSIL
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York—(AP)—A further relaxation in credit conditions, arising from the reduction in the New York federal reserve discount rate from 4 to 3 1/2 per cent, and the heavy accumulation of funds here in anticipation of March 15 tax payments, furnished the impetus for another broad advance in prices in today's stock market. A sprinkling of issues, including a few high priced specialties, showed conspicuous weakness. Trading was in fairly heavy volume.

Call money renewed at 3 1/2 per cent for the first time since Jan. 25, 1928, and then dropped to 3 per cent, the lowest official rate in nearly four years. Outside funds were available as low as 2 1/2 per cent despite some calling of loans by out-of-town banks. Time money rates eased in sympathy, and some dealers again reduced bankers' acceptances 1/4 of 1 per cent, the fifth similar cut in the last fortnight.

While Wall Street's first reaction to the lower money rates was bullish, some observers placed a bearish interpretation on the change, pointing out that the lower rates were caused by the relatively low commercial demand for funds and the necessity of providing some stimulus to business. Efforts of bearish professionals to unsettle the market, however, met with strong resistance. Judging by the borrowing demand for stocks, the short interest in some of the leading speculative issues has reached large proportions.

Further heaviness again developed in some of the commodity markets, wheat futures selling off a cent or more a bushel in the early trading, and this tended to restrain bullish operations in stocks.

The oils, which had not participated extensively in the recent "bull" market, again gave an impressive demonstration of strength. Recent favorable trade developments have revived speculative activity in these issues, and led to the formation of several new pools in the oil stocks. With a few minor exceptions, practically all of the leading petroleum shares, including the Standard Oil issues, Sinclair, Simms, Phillips and Richfield, moved into new high ground for the year.

A. B. Evans, Atlas Powder, American Tobacco, B. J. People's Gas, Auburn Auto, Texas & Pacific Land Trust were marked up 4 to 5 points. Electric Power & Light which is reported to be engaged in natural gas merger negotiations, ran up more than 3 points to a new high at 80. General Refractories, Warren, Checker, Cab, International Hatchery, Preferred and American Appliance also reached new high ground.

Buying of U. S. Steel common received some stimulus from the announcement that a joint congressional committee on internal revenue taxation had approved a refund of more than $3,500,000 for back taxes, and that the treasury department would allow the credit on Saturday. U. S. Steel common, after settling down to 123, rallied above 132.

Elevator broke nearly 10 points, J. I. Case, S. and Crucible steel, Worthington Pump and International Telephone sold down 2 points or more, heaviness of the last named being attributed to new stock financing. Standard Brands sank below 23 to a new 1930 low on selling presumably by the disappointing 1929 report.

Continued pressure against International Telephone, which lost 4 points, together with weakness in several of the food and copper stocks influenced profit taking in the last hour, reducing the early advances. Oils showed strong resistance. Simms reaching 30 1/2, a new 1930 peak. U. S. Steel lost all its advance and Anaconda Standard Brands and General Foods dropped 1/2 point or more. The market closed irregular. Total sales aggregated 3,900,000 shares.

DEMAND FOR WOOL WAS LIGHTER LAST WEEK

Boston—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow: "Demand for wool is slower, both in worsted and woolen wools and prices are easier generally. Reports from the goods market are not too encouraging."

"There is a general disposition to wait developments in the market especially the opening of the second series of colorado sale in London Tuesday. Foreign primary markets are slightly easier for the week."

"In the west, the situation is quieter, both dealers and the National Cooperative having eased up on their drive for pre-shearing contracts."

"Mohair is rather quiet with prices hardly changed for the week."

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Los Angeles Jan. 1, 1930, to March 13, 1930, inclusive were 21,000,000 pounds against 37,584,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1930 to March 13, 1930, inclusive were 29,000,000 pounds against 47,636,400 pounds for the same period last year."

MARKET IS LOWER WITH BIG ARRIVALS

Bulk of Hogs Sell Below $11 When Buyers Insist on Cuts

Chicago—(AP)—Another shock was administered to the hog market when excessive receipts in the local market met with insistent demands for sharp price cuts. STANDARD OF N. J. AND CALIFORNIA FAIL TO AGREE

One Cuts Price of Crude Oil and Other Raises Price
Same Amount

New York—The announcement of a rise of as much as 25 cents a barrel in the price of crude oil in California fields by the Standard Oil company of California, coming close on the heels of a cut of 25 cents a barrel by Standard Oil of New Jersey, reveals these two major companies as far apart as the poles in their policies.

Standard Oil of California raised prices to reward the small independent of that state for the sacrifice they had made in curtailing production heroically in an effort to bring the production into balance with consumption and conserve oil resources.

Standard Oil of New Jersey cut prices immediately following a further curtailment of production by producers in Oklahoma, one of the largest areas in the mid-continent field. That action was interpreted as penalizing the producer for conserving oil, although, of course, such motive was far from the intent of the Standard of New Jersey. It maintained and still holds that the economics of the situation necessitated a cut in prices despite curtailment.

It is generally agreed by impartial observers that conditions in California and the mid-continent are not entirely parallel. In California, as a result of further curtailment, this month, production and consumption are now in balance or as closely in balance as can be expected. In the mid-continent field a balance has not yet been obtained. While Oklahoma is in balance, Texas still has further curtailing to do to bring it into approximate balance.

For those reasons it is unlikely that Standard Oil of New Jersey will alter its price policy, despite the California company's action. But the price cut has aroused bitter resentment in the mid-continent field among hundreds of small producers and it not calculated to promote the conservation movement, while on the other hand Standard Oil of California by regarding producers, has encouraged them to adhere to their curtailment policy.

Since the two fields do not compete in the crude oil market, the divergent policies will hardly have any effect on the market. The competition is restricted to gasoline, in which no change in California prices has been made.

GOOD PROSPECT
The advance in California prices has raised hopes of owners of oil shares that better times are in prospect. Perhaps those investors do not fully realize that the oil industry has not been doing very badly despite all of the hue and cry about overproduction. Quite the contrary. Company reports show that the petroleum business has been profitable. The year 1929 was in fact the most prosperous in several years.

An analysis of reports of oil companies issued so far, covering operations for last year reveals that out of 22 only one made a smaller profit than in 1928. Every one of the others realized better profits and in some instances made the best profits ever reported. In the aggregate the net income of those 22 companies was approximately 36 per cent better than 1928.

Analysis of trade conditions prevailing last year explains the apparent paradox. In the first place oil companies produced more crude oil and gasoline last year than ever before in the history of the industry. Secondly, they sold more gasoline and other refined products by far than ever before. The increase in gasoline alone was 12 per cent above the record sales of the previous year.

A third reason for the profits in the oil industry was the fact that prices were stable during nearly the entire year, including the period of heaviest consumption. Finally, the price of crude oil averaged higher than the previous year in spite of a huge surplus carried in storage. The price of gasoline was higher for the first seven months of the year but for the final five months it was lower with the average for the year, however, slightly under the average for 1928.

WORK BED FACTORY IS TRIED AS CURE

Leysin, Switzerland—(AP)—A workshop whose workers all will lie in bed while performing their jobs is nearing completion here.

Its working force will comprise men, women, girls and boys with "surgical tuberculosis," the kind that attacks joints, spine and limbs. It is a good sized, four story building in which actual, wage-earning production will be used to assist in curing illness.

These patients will not merely lie

MILLER'S ANTI-PAIN OIL
Formerly known as

Snake Oil

Goes Creeping and Crawling Down Into Creaks, Stiff and Swollen Joints, Limering 'Em Up in a Few Minutes.

This great oil, formerly known as "Snake Oil," is the only thing of its kind yet discovered. Will penetrate the thickest sole leather in a few minutes, there is little wonder it gives warmth to muscular pains, neuralgia, stiff joints, chest colds and sore throat almost like magic. Over 500,000 bottles sold under absolute guarantee and less than a dozen bottles returned, a record probably never before equalled by any liniment.

Don't suffer longer, get this most perfecting oil and know what it means to be free from pain. Special introductory generous size bottle for sale at your druggist. Sold by Bliss Co., Appleton and McManis.

in bed and work, they will lie in fixed positions, some of them almost motionless, in postures necessitated by the primary part of the cure, which is exposure of the naked body to sunlight falling directly upon the tubercular area.

Some lie on stomachs, other on backs or sides. A few can move only their fingers. Special beds, special tools and trick workingboards have been made to fit each type.

The sun cure treatment is operated by Dr. Augusto Aollier. He is building the work-shop addition for those too poor to take the cure without worrying about finances.

TURKS ARE GLUM AS WINTER TOURISTS' TRADE DIMINISHES

Summer's Failure of Agricultural Corps Also Creates Crisis

Istanbul —(P)— On the heels of this summer's failure of agricultural crops which have helped to create a serious economic crisis, Turkey is now sadly witnessing the failure of another crop —the winter's harvest of American tourists.

In its efforts to increase national production and stimulate a flow of money into rather than out of Turkey, the Ankara authorities were this year framing the young republic's first serious tourist policy, but the Wall Street crash knocked out their hopes.

Not even the prospect of 60,000 German visitors dispels the gloom. Tourist agencies estimate that there will be at least a twenty-five per cent decrease in the number of Americans visiting Turkey this winter as compared with the 25,000 who came last season. Two big Turkey-bound cruises have been cancelled, one being the tour to the Holy Land via Istanbul which was to have been conducted by Almee Sample Macpherson.

German tourists, however, are coming in crowds. At least 60,000 Germans, double the number visiting the city of Constantinople last year, are expected here this winter. But tourists agencies and bazaar merchants do not consider this additional influx of Germans a compensation for the decrease in Americans.

"The German tourists are a cautious lot," one tourist agent explains. "They don't bargain for what they buy as sharply as Americans, but they buy very little. Americans are the best spenders and that is why their lack will be felt here no matter how great the number of tourists of other nationalities."

"It doesn't look as if short skirts were ever coming back, does it?"

Trout Bite Earlier In Some Streams Than Others

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

Certain trout streams are "early" ones; that is, they must be fished early in the season for best results, while others are "late." For instance, the Rat and the Popple are best during May; the Evergreen, on the Menominee reservation, and the Wolf may well be considered mid-season waters; and the Pine and Oconto best as summer advances. That is not a hard and fast rule but it is true over the average of seasons.

We know that the Speckled trout spawn in November and, for that reason, begin their upward run toward the cold headwaters much earlier than do the Rainbows, which spawn in the spring months. And we know, too, that because of these characteristics, we have a better Speckled trout fishing well down the streams while the waters are high and the summer young.

Generally speaking, the fish are feeding deep on larval substances, floating worms, embryonic Caddis and the like. For that reason, it is evident that your success will be better if you fish deep, instead of stubbornly trying to raise them with surface flies which imitate the natural insects that will be in evidence on the surface a month later.

If the water you first efforts take you to be fast, attach a split shot to your leader to get you bait down to the bottom. Let it roll along, bumping over the sunken rocks as the efferings of nature travel until they reach the neighborhood of a waiting trout. If you are using the messy worms, follow the same procedure. But I can see no good reason for bothering with the messy things when I can get just as many, and oftentimes more, trout by using the artificial lures I have outlined for you. Surely, it is more pleasure, and you don't have to lose so much time baiting up.

If you wish to try the Popple river on the opening day, the best route there is via Pembine, Goodman and Armstrong Creek to Pence. There you leave the main highway and proceed some five miles farther over a road none too good, to the stream. A walk of a mile farther will bring you to "Podunk dam." From there down to where Riley's Creek enters, is one of our best early trout waters. Note I say early. I mean by that, on the opening day, or very shortly thereafter.

17 MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED IN FEBRUARY

Two more marriage licenses were issued in February this year than in February, 1929, according to a report from John E. Hantschel, county clerk. Seventeen licenses were issued last month while in February, 1929, there were 15 licenses issued. However, the total number of licenses issued in the county in the first two months of this year totals only 29 while in the first two months of 1929 there were 32 licenses issued.

thereafter. At that time the fish run big. Later on, those you do take will be much smaller. My next article will have to do with mid-summer streams and the proper flies to use.

MOTORISTS STILL LAX IN GETTING LICENSES

Madison —(P)— Wisconsin motorists are yearly becoming more prompt in asking for auto licenses but the ideal goal is far away, in the opinion of A. C. Hartman, head of the state's auto license division.

On March 1, 277,000 license applications had been filed. This represented an increase of 65,000 over the applications received by March 1, 1929.

With but three days to go, however, it is estimated that more than 750,000 applications for licenses have yet to be received. March 15 is the deadline set by the state law.

According to Hartman, there were approximately 60,000 more licenses issued last year than the previous year and a similar increase is expected this year. A force of 275 persons, most of them young women, are engaged in the work of issuing licenses. They are housed in a two-story structure near the state capital.

After March 15 the motorist must be on the lookout if he has not applied for a license. The statutes fix no additional cost in licenses but the motorist is liable for court costs in addition to an informers fee.

Anyone reporting an auto driver who has not applied for a license may get a two-dollar fee if the motorist's explanation to the court is satisfactory.

MEASLES DECREASING, SAYS SCHOOL NURSE

The number of cases of measles in the city schools have decreased, according to Miss Mary Orblon, school nurse, but there still are a great many cases of mumps. With the remaining cases of measles pretty well scattered through the city's school districts the nurses are asking parents to be particularly cautious as the disease doesn't become prevalent in any one school.

A new case of scarlet fever developed last week, and as yet the nurses have been unable to trace the source.

Because a cold can be the symptom that children with colds be kept from school, and advise parents to call in the family physician if there is any doubt as to the ailment from which the child is suffering.

NEW METHODS USED TO PICK RHODES SCHOLARS

A new method of selecting Rhodes scholars has been inaugurated, according to Dr. W. F. Raney, of Lawrence college, a member of the state committee which each year selects the Wisconsin scholar.

Formerly state committees selected the Rhodes scholars, although each year only 52 of the 43 states were given the opportunity to choose a representative. Now the United States has been divided into eight districts of six states each, each district to name four honor men. Prior to the examination by the district committee each state committee will choose two men to appear before the district group. With Wisconsin in the new fourth district are Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky.

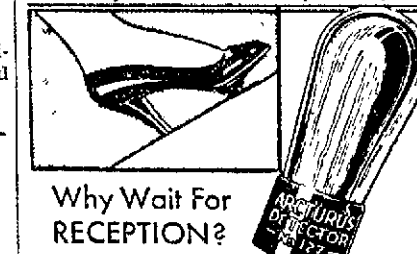

Last year Arthur Mueller, Wausau, a senior at Lawrence, took the state examinations.

SENATOR DENEEN IN HARD FIGHT AGAINST WOMAN

Veteran Politician to Continue Work Until Primaries Are Over

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Chicago—(CPA)—If it were not for the uncertainties involved in fathoming the mind of a woman voter, U. S. Senator Charles S. Deneen today might be enjoying a more placid existence.

As it is, the veteran Illinois politician, who stands so high in Republican circles in a rock-ribbed Republican state that his name more than once has been mentioned for the presidency, is in the midst of the busiest campaign of his long career. It gives promise of continuing to be busy until the votes are cast April 8.

The senator, who has managed to guide himself successfully through the turbulence of this state's politics for more than 35 years, is not inclined to be worried over the threat of competition from his principal opponent, Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick. Yet he intends to leave no stones unturned in meeting this challenge from the ranks of feminine politicians who have picked on him in asping to an office higher than any yet occupied by a member of the sex.

This accounts for the crowded itinerary which is carrying Senator Deneen through more than 90 Illinois counties in a campaign that calls for innumerable speeches and a direct clash with his feminine opponent.

Mrs. McCormick has said:

"No candidacy for this high office deserves to succeed if it is actuated by any purpose involving political reprisal or personal reward."

She has refused to make the present a grudge fight. But the fact that Senator Deneen six years ago defeated the late Senator Medill McCormick just when he had embarked on a promising career, may be supplying an added incentive for his widow to battle that much harder.

The senator in his long career never has had anything quite like the present situation, with which to deal. But if any politician is equipped to deal with the unusual, he may be accepted as that one.

His experience runs back nearly 40 years to the time when he was chosen city attorney of Chicago. Mr. Deneen is the product of one of the pioneer Illinois families and in his youth he learned some of the intricacies of downstate politics. When he came to Chicago he soon was mixing in Republican affairs and after a city attorneyship, he was elected to the states attorneyship—a powerful office. Two terms in this office and he was so well entrenched that it was but a step to the governorship. Two four-year terms were served in that office.

The Democratic upheaval of 1912 gave the Deneen plans a setback, but from that time until he was elected to the senate in 1924, he managed to maintain one of the most powerful Republican organizations. His hand was seen in most republican affairs, but when "Big Bill" Thompson staged his comeback in 1927, the Deneen star seemed to be descending. A year later and it was at its zenith again.

During the 1928 primary a Democratic bomb had given the senator education in another phase of politics.

KILLED BY GANG

Just prior to this blast which rocked his home, one of the Deneen lieutenants "Diamond Joe" Esposito, had been killed in an outburst of gang war and the senator had come to attend his funeral.

In national political affairs the senator has been strictly regular. In Chicago politics at times he has entered into alliances with the Democrats. He is considered as one of the country's shrewdest politicians and his intensive work in the present campaign indicates that the woman voting element has injected something new into the calculations.

The thoroughness with which Senator Deneen is entrenched in this state has caused politicians to marvel at the audaciousness of Mrs. McCormick in opposing him in the primary. And the seriousness with

SEED CORN SUPPLY GOOD IN WISCONSIN

Carry Over Won't Be Heavy, but Supply Is Considered Adequate

Madison—Although Wisconsin produced, in 1929, an adequate supply of commercial seed corn, there is little likelihood of a heavy carryover, states A. H. Wright, agronomist at the College of Agriculture.

Germination tests are running around 95 and over for the state's binned dried seed and all of it is in first class condition, says Wright. All of the commercial seed has been carefully selected and has been dried with artificial heat which insures a low moisture content and excellent keeping qualities.

The supply is not expected to last long for the demand from growers outside of the state is unusually heavy. Two of the leading states of the corn belt, Iowa and Illinois, are facing a shortage of seed for the 1930 planting and are the heaviest buyers.

Wisconsin farmers are being urged to check their supply at once both as to germination and quality to guard against the possibility of a shortage when the planting season arrives.

Retail dealers all over the state have been getting an average of $4 a bushel for first class seed corn, says Wright.

AERIAL PLAYGROUNDS

Buffalo—Schools of the future will have their playgrounds atop the building if the plan of Frank C. Perkins, city council president, is adopted. Perkins plans to plant trees and shrubs atop school buildings. Then he would fix recreational devices there and let the children take their recesses there. It would offer more sunlight and air, he says.

which the senator regards the opposition shows that a woman politician may cause concern even to the most tried masculine politician.

WOODLAND 4-H CLUB ON SEWING PROJECTS

BY W. F. WINSEY
Seymour—The Woodland 4-H club of the Woodland School, District No. 1, town of Seymour, has preserved its organization and has been working at sewing projects since school started in September. Fourteen girls are members of the club and Celia Schuster, teacher of the school, is the leader of the club and supervises the club work of the members.

The birthdays of three of the members occurring on the same day, the three celebrated their joint birthday last Monday evening at a special meeting of the club in the home of Marjorie Stritzel, one of the trio. The two other girls are Fay Tubbs and Carolyn Volk. Games, singing, and a wonderful lunch were some of the features of the evening that the girls will remember.

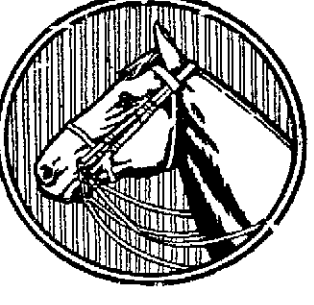

The members of the club are extending to take up baking as their club project for the spring and summer. The officers are: Joyce Tubbs, president; Marjorie Stritzel, vice president; Grace Blanshan, secretary and treasurer; and Fay Tubbs, reporter.

As an interesting side line the club members assisted by the P. T. A. of the district are raising money to send the graduates of school to Washington with the graduates of other rural school of Outagamie county. On Saturday afternoon the P. T. A. is to conduct a pastry sale in the Cash and Carry Store, Seymour, for that purpose. The girls of the 4-H club are selling tickets to a quilt and putting the proceeds into the Washington trip fund. In a short time, the club will stage a play to raise the balance of the money needed.

RYAN HAS NO OPPONENT FOR VILLAGE PRESIDENT

Although Malachai Ryan, village president of Combined Locks, so far has no opposition in his race for reelection, opposition has developed for all other candidates who are seeking reelection. There is no caucus held in Combined Locks but candidates must file nomination papers at least 15 days before the election. Herbert J. Sullivan, present village clerk, is opposed by Daniel Williams. Peter Hopfensperger, present constable, is being opposed by George DeCook and Herbert Long-sine. George W. Smith, present assessor, is opposed by Walter H. Hipp. Four men are seeking three jobs as village trustees. They are John Behling, Louis DeCoster and John Van Linn, present trustees, and Joseph Gunchewick, who seeks a berth on the village board.

SINCLAIR DEALERS STUDY OIL ACTIONS

About 50 dealers attended a meeting of the Sinclair Refining company at Conway hotel Wednesday evening. Speakers were J. P. McCarthy, assistant district manager; C. Walker, assistant to Mr. McCarthy; C. J. Doyle of the research and laboratory department; and H. W. Linneen, chief lubricating engineer.

Mr. Doyle outlined the actions of various gasolines in motors, and spoke about Sinclair's "Three Gasoline Service."

Mr. Linneen told about the Sinclair Refining companies in the United States, and described the manufacture of Opaline. He also spoke about the Sinclair law of lubrication, telling how it was copyrighted in 1920.

Help The Sickly, Frail, Puny Child

Your doctor prescribes Cod Liver Oil for your frail, backward, listless boy or girl because it contains Vitamins A and D.

Without these health-building vitamins, the bad tasting oil that children hate to take would be useless. And now, Mother, when you are absolutely sure of getting these magical vitamins in the new and improved McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets, we know that you won't torture them with abnoxious liquid Cod Liver Oil any more.

For the able chemists in McCoy's Laboratory are extracting these precious vitamins from pure, Norwegian Vitamin-tested Cod Liver Oil and putting them in sugar-coated tablets that children love to take. Two of these tablets are equal to one teaspoonful of pure Cod Liver Oil. We would not be allowed to make this statement if it were not true. McCoy's Tablets can be taken winter and summer and for every ailment, sickness, rundown or underweight condition for which Cod Liver Oil is prescribed, McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets are equally as good.

And that means for grown-ups as well as children. No drugs — Vitamins only: 60 tablets, 60c at any drugstore in America. adv.

Early Springs Hardest On Ornamental Plants

BY D. VICTOR LUMSDEN
Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture

Gardeners are likely to be concerned over their ornamental plants when the temperature stands well below the freezing point during mid-winter. Intense and continued cold, however, is not always considered the worst weather for plants of questionable hardiness. The conditions that often prove most disastrous are those experienced in the early spring when freezing and thawing alternate over a period of two or three weeks or longer. It is this period that tries plants. The warm sunlight of mid-day gives enough heat to the surface soil to draw sap up into the stems and branches of the plants. Night falls and with it comes freezing air which plays havoc with vulnerable some vegetation that has responded to the sun's warmth during the daylight hours.

The problem that confronts the gardener is that of retarding the response of his plants to the premature warm days of early spring. A mulch on the surface of the ground is one of the best preventives of early spring injury. Such a mulch, which should have been applied last fall after the ground had frozen serves to keep the soil frozen.

A frequent mistake is the removal of a protective mulch too early in the spring at a time when it is most needed. Do not perform this operation until most of the period of alternate freezing and thawing has passed.

The same rules apply to the removal of soil mounded around roses and fabric covers for tender shrubs and trees. As long as the ground surface is kept in a frozen state there is less danger of serious damage from the spring sun. Some young trees that are especially susceptible to such injury are benefited if their trunks are bound with white cloth during this danger period. White cloth reflects rather than absorbs the sun's rays and tree with dark colored trunks are especially helped where bark splitting has been experienced in past years.

STATE TO DISTRIBUTE 5,000 PHEASANT EGGS

Madison — (P)—More than 5,000 pheasant eggs are expected to be distributed to sportsmen and game organizations in Wisconsin this year, the conservation commission announced today.

No applications will be considered after April 15. Last year more than 4,500 eggs were distributed and the commission believes that the increase in the breeding stock at the Fish Creek game farm will result in the distribution of more eggs.

Pheasants necessitate care for 12 weeks after hatching, the commission said. Instructions go with the eggs.

CHANGE OPERATING PERIODS OF RADIO BEACONS ON LAKES

New Schedules Will Go into Effect When Navigation Is Reopened

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Preparing for the opening of navigation on the Great Lakes, the Lighthouse Service of the United States Department of Commerce has planned for the establishment of a number of aids to navigation.

Changes in the operating periods of all radio-beacons on the Great Lakes will be made in order to have each radio-beacon in operation during the last 15 minutes of each hour of the day regardless of weather conditions.

This change will become effective for the radio-beacons in Lake Michigan and the western portion of the Straits of Mackinac on May 1, 1930. For certain radio-beacon stations in Lake Erie, Lake Huron, and Lake Superior the change will be effective at the opening of navigation, while for the more remote stations at Huron Island, Rock of Ages, Manitou Island, Michigan Island, Devils Island, and a few others, the change will be made as soon as possible after the opening of navigation, possibly four to six weeks.

The low power radio-beacon at the Sturgeon Bay Canal light station will transmit every 120 seconds, with groups of three dashes and one dot for 60 seconds, and then silent for 120 seconds. It will operate continuously during thick or foggy weather and daily in clear weather for the last 15 minutes of each hour.

A Detroit Harbor Light will be established at Washington Island, Wisconsin, west side of Lake Michigan, on May 15, 1930. It will be 10 feet above water on a cluster of piles marking the turning point on the easterly side of the channel entering the Detroit channel. It will be visible for six miles and will flash red every three seconds for a duration of 0.3 seconds. Its light will be 40 candlepower.

A Minneapolis shoal gas buoy will be established on the opening of navigation at the north end of Green Bay, Michigan. The buoy which will be a red and black skeleton superstructure, will show a flashing white light every three seconds for the duration of 0.3 seconds. It will be 11 feet above water and visible for eight miles. The light will be 70 candlepower.

Another gas buoy will be established at the same time at Saunders Point, Little Bay de Noc, Michigan, at the north end of Green Bay. It will be a black skeleton superstructure, 10 feet above water, visible for eight miles and will show a flashing white light every three seconds for a duration of 0.3 seconds.

Two channel buoys will be established in the Fox river between Green Bay and De Pere at the opening of navigation. The two, one black and one red, will mark the narrowest portion of the dredged channel above the Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Pacific railroad bridge, and will also mark two shoals extending into the channel.

Fellowship of Prayer

FRIDAY
"Joy Through Service"

SCRIPTURE
Memory verse: 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.' (Acts 20:35)

Read: Acts 20:32-35

MEDITATION

To the immature this is nonsense. They have not yet discovered the mechanics of joy. We make much use of the phrase "getting a kick" out of life. Those who use a gun know that a "kick" is the rebound that comes from the release of pent-up energy. "A kick out of life" comes as a part of a similar process. The child jumps up and down and laughs. The student bends to a problem and finds joy in it. The loving heart pours itself out joyfully. No man is happy for long in merely receiving things. It is nature's protest that he is not the center. Happy people are those who put the center of life outside themselves. In spending, not in getting, in realizing their noblest hidden energies, they find life's greatest and most enduring happiness. PRAYER

O God, we pray Thee that we may exercise this day the noblest capacities that Thou hast implanted within us. Give us wisdom and courage to put into daily practice our best thoughts and dispositions, and the things we most sincerely believe. Amen.

Middeboro, Mass.—Prince, dog of the Depson family, is proudly strutting around with a gold medal on his chest. Little Ellen Depson wandered away from the house one day and let down on a railroad trolley. Just as a train was about to crush her, Prince seized her and pulled her to safety. He was awarded the medal for his brave deed.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
4:00—Kimberly vs. Sturgeon Bay.
5:00—Rosendale vs. Ripon.
8:00—West De Pere vs. Menasha.
9:00—Neenah vs. New London.

BY GORDON R. MCINTYRE
THE Neenah district high school basketball tournament resolved itself into pretty much a Fox river valley affair Thursday night when teams from outside the immediate vicinity of the valley found the going too hard and dropped by the wayside in the opening games.

As a result Neenah, again favored to win the tourney, Menasha, New London and West De Pere high schools Friday evening will meet in the second round of the meet, two of the teams to go into the finals and battle for the district championship Saturday evening.

The teams which tasted defeat for their trouble Thursday evening were Kimberly, Sturgeon Bay, Rosendale and Ripon, everyone losing by large scores. Kimberly was the first victim of the day's play losing to Ivan Cahoon's West De Pere five by a score of 37 and 17 while Menasha with Vetter doing most of the work walloped Sturgeon Bay by a score of 39 and 23. Rosendale lost the first of the evening games to Neenah by a score of 27 and 14 while New London romped off with a win over Ripon, 38 and 23.

The five or more youngsters from Kimberly who had looked forward to the tournament from the first day of the season just ending, ran into hard luck in drawing De Pere's veteran combination but proved to be fighters by holding the boys from up river to a 5 and 5 tie at the end of the first quarter. The effort was too much, however, and the Papermakers had shot their wad so that De Pere pulled away in the second quarter and at half time led by a score of 19 and 10. The second half saw De Pere improve and Kimberly's efforts were so small that the game was called at the end of the third quarter Cahoon's proteges were away out in front 28 and 14. The final quarter was a repetition of the third and when the game ended the Papermakers trailed 37 and 18.

VETTER STARS FOR PAILS
Vetter, Menasha's all conference forward last year, put in his bid for a similar berth this year in the second game of the afternoon session by scoring eight field goals and seven free throws to lead his team to its 39 and 23 win over Sturgeon Bay, winners in a tourney played at Algoma last week. Incidentally Vetter's 23 points were well over half his team's total.

The first half the game was comparatively close Menasha leading by a 7 and 4 score at the end of the first quarter and 15 and 15 at the end of the half. In the second half, however, the Pails began pulling away to take a 32 and 17 lead at the rest period and then coasted along to cop 39 and 23. Sturgeon Bay failed to make a field goal in the second half all of which gives Menasha guards the laurels for defensive work.

The first game of the evening program brought together two teams well supplied with big fellows, Neenah and Rosendale. But the Rosendale offense was built around the efforts of a long, rangy center named G. Smith and when Coach Ole Jorgensen put his star guard, Ehlers, on the pivot man he stopped the entire Rosendale team.

Neenah opened the game rather auspiciously, or perhaps it should be said Ehlers opened the game. He cued a field goal shortly after the opening whistle and was fouled by Scheid while making the toss. The Neenah guard then made both gifts good and Neenah led 4 and 0. A minute later Ehlers was again fouled and he made the count 5 and 0 for his team. Play during the remainder of quarter was slow and the period ended 7 and 1 for the Red and White.

BELL START SCORING
Going into the second quarter, Ole Jorgensen's team piled up points as Bell, tanky center, swung into action and when the lights went out to rest for ten minutes at the end of the half, the count was 16 and 4 for Neenah. Rosendale had made only one field goal during the period but had missed enough free throws to have at least made the game close.

Bell continued his scoring in the second half and with a couple field goals by Ehlers managed to keep Ole Jorgensen's team afloat by a substantial score. Rosendale's play in the last half was much improved over the opening period the Neenah five having a mere 11 to 9 advantage for the 16 minutes of toil.

The last game on the evening's card showed the big red team from New London and Ripon. New London did throughout the entire encounter taking a 9 and 4 lead at the end of the first quarter. During the second quarter, however, Ripon scored five points and New London four but the first period's play gave the Wolf river team a four point advantage, 13 and 9.

When the third quarter opened a youngster named Brown ran wild for New London by dropping field goals with regularity and with the aid of a reserve center, Raby, had the Redmen out in front 29 and 16 when the quarter ended. Raby had replaced Vetter who left the game on personal affairs. Raby's New London offense would be weakened by the passing of the big fellows

OSHKOSH MAN ROLLS 298 AT ELK MEET

Gets Eleven Straight Strikes but Rolls Split on Twelfth Attempt

Oshkosh—(P)—Things were popping here last night in the Elk bowling tournament and an addition to a nice doubles and singles score being hung up, Herb Wollachuk, Oshkosh, missed rolling a perfect 300 game by exactly two pins.

Eleven times Wollachuk slid up to the foul line to scatter all of the pins on his first ball. He took careful aim for the twelfth strike, but his ball hooked into the head pin and he got a split and a 298 game.

The Oshkosh bowler, with games of 201, 193 and 298 took the lead in the singles with 663.
O. Roenitz, Oshkosh with 622 was second in the singles, while in the doubles, Dickman and Roenitz took first place with a 1,367 total.

soon were set at rest as Raby began finding the hoop.

Play in the fourth quarter was not quite as sensational as the third although New London kept increasing its lead while holding the Ripon five to a mere five points.

Three youngsters among those competing on the various teams entered in the tourney were named all-conference choices last season and have entered strong bids for fame again this year. West De Pere has VanSistine who was placed at forward last year because Scheller usurped all the honors at center. Menasha has Vetter, forward, who showed to considerable advantage against Sturgeon Bay while Neenah has Ehlers, guard, who has proved his worth by almost single handed stopping Rosendale.

DISTRICT AMATEUR CAGE TOURNAMENT OPENS THURSDAY

Mulfords of Kaukauna Beat Bay Team; Nichols Loses to Hardwares

THURSDAY'S RESULTS
Checkerboards 35, O. R. Kloehn 23.
Bankers 39, Luxemburg 23.
Mulfords 33, Reeke Plumbers 21.
Nicholson Hardwares 37, Nichols 26.

TONIGHT'S GAMES
Bankers vs. Mulfords.

ONE Appleton amateur basketball team survived the initial round in the northeastern Wisconsin basketball tournament at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening and another fell by the wayside, as result of the first four elimination games. O. R. Kloehn company, considered the strongest of the Appleton clubs entered, lost a 35 and 23 decision to the Checkerboards of Oshkosh, while the Citizen's National Bank five survived, by beating the Luxemburg high school alumni, 39 and 23.

Another team from the immediate vicinity, the Kaukauna Mulfords, al-

KIMBERLY ENTERED
Kimberly club team Thursday was declared eligible to compete in the district tournament by Joseph Horner, Green Bay, chairman of the state Y. M. C. A. physical education committee, providing the squad dropped Pete Koll and A. J. "Dud" Conchane from its roster. The Papermakers agreed to abide by the rule and took the place of the Kedow Meats, Manitowish, in the tourney, playing their first game against Neenah Kimberly-Clark at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

so won its first game beating the Reeke Plumbers of Green Bay, 33 and 21. The remaining game on the evening's card saw the Nicholson hardware company team of Green Bay beat the Nichols village team by a score of 37 and 26.

The game between the Bankers and the Alumni squad of Luxemburg opened fast with the Appleton five taking the lead at the very beginning of play and holding it until near the end of the first period when they were overtaken by the Luxemburg squad. The first quarter ended with a score of 12 and 11 in favor of the invaders.

The second period saw the Bankers regain the lead and the scoring was fast and furious until the end of the half when the board read 21 and 13 in favor of the home team. In the third period the Luxemburg quintet set about doing the same thing that the Bankers had accomplished in the previous period. However, their rushes were stopped after three successful shots and the quarter ended 34 and 17 for the local squad.

The fourth and final period saw heavy scoring by both teams, but the Bankers' lead was too long and the battle ended in their favor 33 and 21. Ray Tornow did the bulk of scoring for the Bank five, totaling 26 points.

An Oshkosh team, the Checkerboards, furnished the big surprise of the evening by walloping the O. R. Kloehn company of Appleton, an aggressive team, by a 35 and 23 decision in the eight round win of the professional card here last night over Vic Walters of Milwaukee.

In the semi-windup, Tiny Hable, 267, Oshkosh, kayoed Pat Whalen of Milwaukee in the fifth stanza of a six rounder.

The other results were: Ted Algiers, New London, 147, won a six round decision over Farmer Weitz, Oshkosh; Ed Platten, Green Bay, 235, won a four round decision over Clifford Cottrell, Larsen, 243; Johnny Lombardi, Milwaukee, 127, knocked out Louis Stadler, Oshkosh, in the second round.

BIG FOUR WRESTLING MEET DEFINITELY OFF

The Big Four conference wrestling meet to have been held at Ripon Saturday has been called off for this year at least, because of failure of at least one school to enter the meet. R. A. Kenney of Carroll threw the monkey wrench in proceedings when he failed to enter the Pioneers in the tourney. Carroll's support toward the meet was lukewarm originally and the Pioneers maneuvered around until they finally put a crimp in things by flatly neglecting to cooperate.

Peoria, Ill. — Earl Mastro, Chicago, stopped Spark Plug Russell, Trenton, N. J., 60; Tony Saunders, Cincinnati, outpointed Jackie Moore, Chicago, 60.

MURRAY CALLS M. U. GRIDDERS MARCH 17

Hilltoppers Are Due for Six Week Workout This Spring

Milwaukee—One hundred members of the 1929 Marquette university variety and freshman football squads are in receipt of invitations from Coach Frank J. Murray of the Golden Avalanche to participate in the 1930 Hilltop spring drill which will open at the Marquette stadium next Monday afternoon, March 17.

This is the earliest football call in Marquette history, but Coach Murray has decided the spring session must be lengthened if results are to be obtained. Workouts will be conducted daily until May 1.

The spring drill will be conducted by Coach Murray and Line Coach John L. (Tarzan) Taylor, who intend to lose little time in getting the squad down to hard work. There will be the usual fundamentals, but they will be as abbreviated as possible.

"Much depends on the success of spring practice at Marquette this season," said Coach Murray, "and I will urge every boy to turn out every day for the entire six-week session. Our first game for 1930 is in Sept. 27, meaning that there will be but eight or nine practice days next fall before the opening. Therefore, the real building of the team must be done this spring."

Coaches Murray and Taylor plan to stage two or three regular football games between different groups during the spring workouts. The drills are expected to be spirited as a result of the keen competition forecast for many positions on the 1930 team.

Equipment will be issued Friday and Saturday so that everything will be in readiness for the first workout Monday.

CLEVELAND WILL FORCE MACKS AND YANKEES IN A. L.

Roger Peckinpaugh Whipping Together a Powerful Club for 1930 Race

BY RALPH WHEATLEY Associated Press Staff Writer
NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians are on the march and their whoops should be heard up around the top of the hill when the 1930 season closes.

Chief Roger Peckinpaugh is whipping a powerful squad into shape and while they may not have enough power to fend off the Athletics and Yankees, they should give somebody a tussle for the banner.

The Indians are fortunate in having the backbone of their team made up of men old in baseball but young in years. In addition they have promising rookies. Out of the squad of 42 big men, 35 may be considered well beyond the raw stage.

Last year the Indians finished in third place. If it were possible for the Indians at the start of this season to hit their stride of the last month of the 1929 season they probably would go through rough shod over anything in sight.

There will not be any drastic changes in this season's lineup over last. Charlie Jamieson may be forced to function as utility outfielder as his 37 years have placed him in the twilight of baseball. It will be hard for him to hold his regular post against such men as Ed Falk, Earl Averill and Dick Porter.

The Indians had the fright of their lives when it looked as if scarlet fever would keep Lewie Fenson off first base, but word has come from California that Fenson will be fit for the start of the season. Fenson led the American league in batting honors last season.

The shortstop billet is creating lots of excitement with three lads, Carl Lind, Ray Gardner and John Goldman competing for it. Lind is making a drive to get back with the regulars after being routed off second base by Urban Hodapp. Hodapp has second clinched about as much as Joe Sewell has third. Luke Sewell and Glenn Myatt will carry the nod behind the bat.

The pitching squad is something to behold. Only one of them stands under six feet and only one of them is in the thirties. They are twelve veritable giants, eight right handers and four southpaws, with Fenson at the top hand but with Hudlin, Miller, Holloway and Shaunt not far below. Others with more than passing ability are Clinton Brown, Milbern Shoffner, Mel Harder, and Peter Jablonowski.

The main weapon possessed by the Indians is their hitting power. Every man of the regulars can pound the ball, the lightest hitters being among the shortstop candidates and the pitchers.

ROBINS THREATEN TO PEDDLE BABE HERMAN

Clearwater, Fla.—(AP)—Angered over Babe Herman's refusal to sign a contract, President Frank B. York of the Brooklyn Robins, threatens to put the slugging outfielder on the baseball block.

York said he would try to trade Herman for another outfielder within the next few days unless Herman decides to sign a contract at $15,000 a year. He is holding out for $25,000.

A QUESTION of HONOR

by Ruth Cross

Chapter 24
LOVE VERSUS RICHES

THE morning brought two surprises—the first a pleasant one.

Anne had just reached the stage in her house-cleaning where things looked infinitely worse than they had before she started. She was going back and forth in a perfect frenzy of housewife's zeal, putting out bedding, rugs, curtains—everything that could by any conceivable chance need sunning.

On one of these trips to the front porch, she spied two figures coming up the trail—three, if Japheth was to be counted. Suddenly, she dropped the rug she was shaking, and started joyfully down the steps. Without a doubt, the figure behind Shob was Delphine! In that moment, Anne forgave the vociferous, tyrannical Frenchwoman everything. Never in her whole life had she been so glad to see anybody.

Delphine had already darted around Shob, who was clumping along stolidly resigned, with a huge suitcase in either hand. She rushed up to Anne and flung her arms about her, sobbing and laughing and talking all in the same breath. Her presence was quickly and volubly explained.

She had seen "M'sieur Shob" when he came to bring the note—oh, she cast her expressive eyes heavenward, what a consternation, what a hubbub, what a row! And "M'sieur Morse" all dressed up waiting for the priest that had gone somewhere else! Oh, it was too delicious! Delphine fairly spilled over into laughter. Well, she had seen "M'sieur" Shob.

It had come to her like out of the sky—madame must have clothes of course. She must have a maid. She, Delphine, would come. M'sieur Shob would carry the suitcases—whether it pleased him or not. She had overtaken him a short distance from the lodge; of course, no one had seen her leave—who had taken care for that. Now she was here, she meant to stay.

An hour later, Anne, clad in a simple dark dress with one of Delphine's pretty aprons over it stood atop of a teetering eminence composed of a kitchen chair with boxes piled on it. She was handing things down to Delphine from the top pantry shelf. Her sleeves were rolled high above white elbows, her hair rumpled, her cheeks brightly flushed. For the first time in her life, she was reveling in the primal woman's joy of pursuing dirt to its last top-shelf-in-the-corner entrenchment.

Of a sudden Delphine halted in her regular back and forth trot between pantry and cook table and muttered something in French. She held up her hand warningly to Anne and quickly disappeared towards the front of the house. She came back almost immediately, her eyes wide and startled, her face the picture of calamity. Before she could speak, Anne guessed the truth.

She climbed down slowly from her swaying perch, rolled down her sleeves and patted her hair thoughtfully into place. Delphine looked after her as she went toward the living-room with mingled awe and pity. "Tavre enfant!" she muttered fervently to herself. Then she climbed up on the boxes and began rummaging about.

In the living-room Mrs. Wilmot sat on the edge of a chair, fanning herself with her handkerchief and frankly panting.

"What's Delphine doing up there?" the other woman began without preface or greeting.

"She came back with Shob when he went to take my note," Anne explained, dropping down on a chair near the table.

"Well, she'll have to whistle for her quarter's salary, but that of course is no concern of mine. And so this is where you expect to live, is it?" Mrs. Wilmot's single, ironical glance about the room made it seem actually to shrink; to look almost mean and insignificant.

"Yes," she said, "this is where I expect to live. Delphine and I have just cleaned it from floor to ceiling. It's been the best fun I've ever had in my life, and—it does look dear and liveable, doesn't it?"

Mrs. Wilmot granted enigmatically, "It always looks so," she observed at last in a perfectly matter-of-fact tone, "that you were a fool. But that's neither here nor there. There was a postscript to your note this morning from this—er—"

"From my husband, Mr. Glenn," Anne suggested quietly.

The other woman looked at her sharply, but passed over that intimation for the time. "I don't know his name and I don't want to know it," Mrs. Wilmot leaned forward interestedly. "Let me see it, Auntie; the note."

Mrs. Wilmot reached into her hand bag, took out a crumpled sheet and tossed it to her. Anne smoothed it out with hurrying fingers. Glenn had said that he would make things right, but she had supposed that he meant to pay it a little at a time.

"Your uprising, indeed!" her aunt went on with unmitigated scorn. "He couldn't pay for your face cream. But that's not what I've come about either. You are married?"

Anne nodded rather absently. "This morning at 8 o'clock, Aunt Emily," she added, looking up from the note, "he says in this that he's going to pay you in full, and he will. He would never have written that if he hadn't known he could do it somehow."

Mrs. Wilmot glanced at her sharply. "He hasn't any money, has he?"

"I don't think so—only his salary or whatever he gets for his work. But perhaps he means to borrow it." "Hum, very likely! Where was this man last night?"

Anne met her glance squarely. "Leon ought to be able to tell you that," she said.

"And where has he been today?" The blood rushed up hotly into Anne's face. "He went away 10 minutes before he was married. I have not seen him since."

The other woman's face registered unmistakable relief. "In that case," she said, "all is not yet lost. A divorce can easily be arranged and the whole disgraceful affair hushed up. Leon," she leaned forward impressively, "is still willing to marry you."

Anne stared dumbly at that placid, self-assured old face. Then she got slowly to her feet, steadying herself against the table. "I'm sorry I've disappointed and failed you, Auntie. I think it's just possible," she looked away from the bright little eyes which seemed to be boring mercilessly into her soul. "If you could know how not that he means to borrow it, you wouldn't feel quite so bitter. But I did the only thing I could under the circumstances—it wasn't premeditated—I scarcely had time to think even—At all events, now that it's done, I mean to stand by it, and I haven't the slightest intention of getting a divorce."

"You haven't eh?" Mrs. Wilmot did not appear particularly discomfited. She was on the point of expressing herself further, when the quiet was broken by a piercing scream. A second scream, a clatter of things falling and tumbling, told Anne that the leaning tower of boxes in the kitchen pantry had probably collapsed with Delphine.

FAMED SCHOLAR AGAIN DEFYING KING OF SPAIN

Alfonso Does Not Dare Silence Bitter Criticisms of Opponent

BY MILTON BRONNER
London — The ending of the exile of a white-haired, pleasant-faced old college professor has marked the beginning of fresh troubles for the already sorely harassed King of Spain.

This time it may be a battle to the finish between Alfonso, the ruler and autocrat, and the republican and radical elements of the nation are rallying behind Unamuno, who does not fear to attack the King. Alfonso, on the other hand, has not dared to silence this champion of freedom whose words sway millions of his countrymen.

For Miguel Unamuno is a difficult sort of opponent. No "man of mystery" is he, resorting to intrigue or shady plot. He again is speaking fully and openly, just as he did in the seven years before his exile by General Primo Rivera, the fallen dictator.

WAS RECTOR OF UNIVERSITY
Seemingly Unamuno had every intention to close his eyes to what was going on in Spain. He had a very good job. He was Rector of the University of Salamanca. He also held two chairs in that university, teaching Greek and holding philological classes in which he told of the development of the Castilian tongue and compared it with French, Italian, Catalan and Portuguese. That and his vast reading in all known European languages would have been enough work for the ordinary man of talent.

But Unamuno wrote powerful poems. He poured forth novels and tales. He wrote a profound criticism of his country's greatest book, "Don Quixote," and made of his essay a criticism of everything that was going on in Spain and played with bitter words those who were keeping Spain down in the rut.

SENT TO "DEVIL'S ISLAND"
Even that labor did not exhaust the energies of this tall, spare man with the bent shoulders and the silvery hair. When he chose, he criticized King Alfonso in a country, where any word of criticism may bring a prison sentence.

Without the semblance of a trial, such as Americans know it, the dictator banished him to the barren, rocky isle of Fuerteventura in the Canaries. So destitute is this Spanish "Devil's Island" that every bit of food and every drop of drinking water has to be taken there by boat.

ESCAPE TO FRANCE
Unamuno languished there for some months. And then an astonishingly dramatic thing happened, the kind of thing that is seen in the movies, but rarely in real life. The American-trained editor of the "Quotidien," a great radical paper of Paris, conceived the idea of rescuing Unamuno from captivity. A ship was rigged up and one night Unamuno was taken off and was safe in French waters before Madrid heard about it. When his feet were already on French soil, the Spanish government announced it had "set Unamuno at liberty."

This correspondent saw him at a cheap little hotel in Paris where he was staying because of his meager resources. It was a most extraordinary interview. Unamuno would start a sentence in English, pass off into French in the middle and end up in German.

But through his talk there flamed the unquenchable spirit of this man nearing 70 and his belief that the dictatorship must sooner or later come to an end.

Afterwards he moved down to Hendaye on the French side of the Pyrenees to be close to Irún, on the Spanish side. Here he had a listening post where he could learn all that was going on in his country. As soon as Rivera fell and General Berenguer was named in his place by the king, Unamuno prepared to go home. The Spanish police wanted him to come into the country secretly. Unamuno refused.

RETURNED IN TRIUMPH
His return was a triumph. Five thousand people hailed him when he crossed the international bridge into Spain. When he came to his home town of Bilbao, 20,000 greeted him like a conquering hero.

Then he went to the greatest show of all in his old university town. All Salamanca turned out. Students by thousands, accompanied by hundreds of graduates, met him at the railway station. All the fine ladies were in the balconies of their homes. Spanish heretofore had only given such a welcome to a returning and triumphant general. The student body at once demanded that the university rector, who had been named by the government in Unamuno's place, should resign. He refused, but when professors joined in with the students, he saw the light. It is expected that Unamuno will be restored to all his old rights and duties.

The indomitable spirit of the old man, however, may prevent this restoration and send him back to exile or to prison. For he has just delivered two more withering blasts against King Alfonso. These are his accusations:

First — In 1923 the Spanish army was fighting the Riffs in Morocco. Against the wishes of the War Minister and against the wishes of the High Commissioner, the same Berenguer who is now Premier, Unamuno says King Alfonso gave the orders for an advance by the Spanish Army. It resulted in one of the greatest reverses Spanish arms have ever had. An army of 20,000 men was cut to pieces. An unfortunate general committed suicide. Thousands were taken prisoners. The Riffs captured enough ammunition to enable them to go on fighting for several years. Spain was seething with anger.

SECOND — Six years ago Primo Rivera seized power as dictator. Berenguer was temporarily disgraced. Unamuno asserts Rivera made him self dictator with the full approval

Talks To Parents

RESPONSIBILITY

By Alice Judson Peale

Mrs. Roberts is a young and pretty woman. She enjoyed her children while they were babies, but as soon as they got to the runabout age she found, as she put it, that she was not "a natural born mother."

And so she slipped all too easily into the habit of allowing their grandmother, who lived with them, to take over the real care of the children. True, they still came to her with special requests, but it was grandmother who got them off to school in the morning, listened to their adventures, took care of their colds and settled their difficulties.

By the time the children were well up in the grades their mother knew that she had paid a high price for those care-free years when they were growing from babyhood to adolescence.

She had shut her responsibility upon willing and competent shoulders, but she had forfeited the comradeship and understanding which is one of the compensations of motherhood.

Bringing up children is a long, and to those who are not temperamentally fitted for it, tedious job. It is a temptation to let some kindly disposed relative or some well paid governess take over the task which no mother should relinquish.

This does not mean that mothers should not have vacations or that they should forego certain hours daily when they follow their own interests and pleasures, but they should never so completely put their children in charge of someone else that it is to this person that they go with their confidences, their questionings, their delights and their troubles.

Children who thus lose their mothers suffer an emotional deprivation which cannot be lightly estimated.

COMMITTEE TO OPEN
BIDS ON 4 GRADERS

The county highway committee will meet at the courthouse Tuesday afternoon to open bids on four motor patrol graders, according to Frank Appleton highway commissioner. If the committee decides to buy the graders there will be several changes made in the county road patrol districts because one grader can take care of two districts which are now handled by two men and two teams.

France's Lindy Predicts 700-Miles-An-Hour Planes

Paris — Mankind is just beginning to step lively, in the opinion of M. Louis Bleriot, pioneer French aviator and, as the first man to fly across the English Channel, the Lindbergh of 25 years ago.

"We marvel now at a speed of 350 miles an hour, but the day will not be long in coming when we will be able to travel twice that fast, and with fewer risks than man takes in making speed now," said M. Bleriot, reviewing his impressions of the Schneider cup races in England.

A plane capable of flying 700 miles per hour could travel 25,000 miles, the approximate distance around the world in the amazing time of 35 hours.

M. Bleriot, one of the leading designers and builders of airplanes in France, has during his lifetime been one of the most advanced thinkers in aviation. When he made his historical flight across the channel he said, "This is only the beginning" and he feels much the same way today about the recent Schneider cup races.

PLANS NEW SPEED RACE
M. Bleriot has already taken steps to win international approval of his plan to put up a cup in speed records for "land" planes. He has written to the president of the Aero Club explaining his project, which has already won approval in flying circles here. It is believed that the Bleriot Cup Races will go far to solve the problems of practical flying at high speeds.

Amazed as we all were at the speed of the Schneider cup races, the control and ease with which they were handled continued to impress that man's foresight could be made to travel much faster, and with security, if they were designed and constructed differently. The hydroplanes of the Schneider cup races were veritable projectiles. They had a big fuselage, enormous floats and almost no wings. A good projectile would have much more finish.

"Aviation is evolving toward balloons and engines who are trying for more and more speed will have to construct machines that resemble hardly at all the machines in use today. They will be, I imagine, sort of boats propelled through the air by the force of their propellers. There is no limit to such speed possibilities. I believe they will do 1200 kilometers an hour. When I started to fly we made 60, now we make 600. In 20 years speed has been multiplied by 10. It will be multiplied by 10 again."

FAST LANDINGS DANGEROUS
M. Bleriot explained that landing such machines was a science that must be studied. The most feasible method experimented with today, he said, was that of a parachute capable of carrying a machine, such as is being tested in America. When a landing was desired the motor could be stopped, the parachute released and the machine would come down gently in a long curve.

The prospective of speed that we will probably be able to realize raises curious problems. At 1200 kilometers, for instance, the plane will go faster than sound, or the noise that it makes. You can imagine, therefore, what a terrible engine of war it will be.

The first advertisement of the Moore Band Course, of which E. C. Moore, director of instrumental music in Appleton schools, is the author, has appeared in Metronome, national music magazine.

The Teachers Manual, one of the 25 books of the set, is characterized in the advertisement as "the most practical and exhaustive manual ever published." The new and original system of fingering charts worked out by Mrs. Moore also is pointed out.

SEAGOING OFFICE GIRL WANTS OTHER WOMEN TO TRY IT

Quit Job on Land Because
She Wanted Change—and Found It

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
New York — Modern life gives women all sorts of chances to work and be useful, but mighty little opportunity for play and adventure, according to Viola Cooper, a stenographer by necessity and a sailor by choice.

It was some three years ago when she lived in San Francisco and had been pounding the keys rather vigorously, feeling that Fate owed her more than a machine, a notebook and an eight hour day. When she struck a blow for freedom.

Walking into the boss' office, she announced: "I'm quitting—going to sea for a change."

Which did not mean that Viola was sailing somewhere in a comfortable stateroom, or even on a tramp steamer.

"I meant," she exclaimed, "a true ship, a sailing ship—the finest creation of human genius."

JOBS HARD TO FIND

Finding such a craft was not easy, but getting a chance to sail on one was practically impossible, the prejudice against women in crews being what it is, even before the Joan Lowell book.

But she and a friend, Jean Schoen, managed to get an audience with the gallant old captain of the Bougainville, a 63-year-old sailing vessel that was to be taken out to the Fiji Islands, and they beat down his resistance after the fashion of enterprising American girls who know what they want, and in time they were enlisted as midshipmen.

They took the South Seas on high gear, learned considerable about navigation, really made themselves useful on the boat, ate the bad food, fought rats, gained the respect of the sailors, met a few cannibals, and finally arrived at New Caledonia, off the Australian coast.

Here the girls parted, and came eventually, by different routes, to New York. The adventure being over, Miss Cooper found a job as a stenographer—an excellent one, she never has to worry about work—and hoped all the wanderlust was out of her system for a while.

But it seems that a ship, particularly a noble sailing ship, is harder to forget than a typewriter—or even a sailor. Instead of conquering her desire to go to sea, and seeing things, she had only fanned it. She wrote a book about her adventures and called it "Windjamming to Fiji."

"Since that time," she said, "I have been receiving letters from stenographers and office girls all over the country. All of them, it appears, are starving, just as I was and am now, for adventure, for a friendly acquaintance with the sea, and for one good voyage on a sailing ship."

About this time Miss Cooper read of an old sailing ship that was to be put up for auction at the Anderson Galleries—the Benjamin F. Packard, that was to end a gallant and adventurous career as a relic. Before she could get in her bid, the boat was sold for $10,000.

They gave her an idea: there are thousands of stenographers longing for trips on sailing ships, and here are sailing ships that are being sold as relics because nobody knows what to do with them any more.

SHED MAKE 'EM WORK

"One could be bought cheaply," she insisted, "and overhauled so that stenographers could take trips on them, and actually get the feel of the sea."

"With very little training in port, women can learn a little about navigation, and many of them could go as members of the crew."

"Under the direction of a few capable officers, they could learn to keep watch, make star sights, use the compass, mend and handle the sails, and actually know something about the sea."

So now she is engaged in heavy correspondence with owners of sailing ships and with adventure-seeking women wage-earners, and hopes to do something that will insure the freedom of the seas for stenographers.

Healthiest!

"My little daughter is just about the healthiest girl I know," says Mrs. Ray Shiba, 1835 Fifteenth St., Milwaukee. "And I want to give credit where it is due."

"Ruth" was constipated several years ago and I gave her California Fig Syrup. It helped her so wonderfully that I have used it ever since for all her upsets or colds. It has kept her strong, energetic, rugged."

Children suffer when bowels aren't regular. Breath becomes fetid; tongue coated; eyes dull. When these symptoms are neglected, biliousness, feverishness, lack of appetite invariably follow.

The first dose of California Fig Syrup relieves these symptoms and activates sluggish bowels. Successive doses help tone and strengthen weak bowels; improve appetite; encourage digestion and assimilation. Try it with a bilious, headachy, constipated child and see how it helps!

The pure vegetable product, endorsed by doctors for 50 years, always bears the name California. So look for it when buying.
